IN CONFERENCE HERE WITH STATE LEADERS

Democratic Delegations of Middle West in Two-Day
Meetings to Plan for Campaign.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, in St. Louis today, took up the campaign problems of eight Middle-Western states, three of which he characterized in an election forecast as "fighting ground," and five, including Missouri, as states certain to elect their electoral votes for Gov. Smith.

Democratic leaders of Missouri, Illinois, Kentucky, Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Tennessee and Iowa were here to lay their problems before the chairman in separate state conferences today and tomorrow, which will end in a general session tomorrow.

Raskob and many other Democrats will depart tomorrow night for Hot Springs, Ark., to attend the notification ceremonies for Senator Joseph T. Robinson, vice presidential nominee.

In his forecast Raskob claimed 27 states or 309 electoral votes as "certain," six states with 38 votes as "of little doubt," and classified the remaining 15 states with 184 votes as "fighting ground," 266 of the 531 electoral votes being needed for victory.

Of the eight states involved in the Middle Western conferences, Missouri, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Kentucky and Tennessee are classed as "certain," while Illinois, Kansas and Iowa are listed as "fighting ground."

60,000 Majority in St. Louis. Raskob predicted that St. Louis will give Smith a majority of 60,000 votes, sufficient to overcome any opposition there may be elsewhere in the State and put Missouri's 18 electoral votes in the Democratic column.

Prohibition, he declared, is the dominant issue in the industrial states, particularly in the East, while farm relief is the chief issue of the campaign in the agricultural states of the Middle West.

The budget of the Democratic National Committee calls for $4,000,000 to be raised and spent during the presidential campaign, said Raskob.

Expected G. O. P. to Raise $6,000,000. "The Republican campaign announced their goal as from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000, but I have information that it is between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000," Raskob said.

"The Democratic have no objection to that. In fact, we feel that under the auspices of good business the Republicans will need as much money as the Democrats in order to sell their goods to the people."

An executive session attended by all the leaders from the eight states was held in the forenoon at the Jefferson Hotel. Chairman Raskob, United States Senator Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island, chairman of the Advisory Committee, and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, in charge of women's activities, were the speakers.

"The State leaders to concentrate on precinct organization work and to begin at once to arrange for a large registration. Particular emphasis was laid on the importance of getting women to vote."

Raskob said the Democratic party planned to spend $250,000 to drive for farm support in the corn belt states and $600,000 in radio campaigning.

"The East never has understood the farm problem," he declared. "I have never met a man, including McNary-Haugen bill, Gov. Smith has arranged for a survey of the situation by an capable economist, if elected, he will be able to recommend an agricultural program which will win the support of the East and the applause of the West."

Chairman Raskob arrived in St. Louis from New York at 5 p. m. yesterday. Besides Senator Gerry and Mrs. Roosevelt, those in the WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Balloons will trail from the shipping board liner America across the Atlantic on a voyage from New York to Cherbourg, and return, beginning tonight.

Three junior naval officers, students in the Navy's postgraduate aerological course, will make up air observations by the use of small pilot balloons in order to better learn the elements over the trans-Atlantic air lanes. The balloons are to be released and followed by theodolites, horizon measuring compasses. The data gathered will be used by the Navy and weather bureau.

The officers have been studying in the bureau of aeronautics for the past two months. After returning to this country they will go to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology for further study. They are Lieut. R. H. Smith, W. E. Gist and H. B. Hutchinson.

CHICAGO POLICE ASK FOR WARRANT FOR ROY TOOMBS

Sidener Already in That City With Authority to Extradite International Insurance Man.

Chief of Police Gerk today received a telegram from John Stege, deputy commissioner in Chicago of the Chicago Detective Bureau, requesting that a warrant for the arrest of Roy C. Toombs, president of the International Life Insurance Co., charged with larceny in the withdrawal of $3,562,000 from the company's assets, be sent to Chicago for service.

The telegram added that Chief Gerk would be notified when to send an officer for Toombs. In communicating this information to the Circuit Attorney's office, Chief Gerk learned that Circuit Attorney Sidener and one of his assistants were in Chicago today and had with them the four extradition warrants granted by Gov. Small of Illinois for the removal of Toombs to St. Louis.

The warrant had previously been sent by Sidener to Chicago with two St. Louis police officers, who reported they were unable to serve them because Toombs was in custody of a Federal officer at the time in the bankruptcy proceeding of his Chicago investment house of Toombs & Daily.

Toombs has been living at a Chicago hotel in custody of an officer of the Bankruptcy Court at Chicago, where he is appearing from time to time as a witness in tracing assets of Toombs & Daily Co.

It is Circuit Attorney Sidener's purpose to serve the extradition warrants, which would force Toombs into custody and under bond, in the event he was held longer for the Bankruptcy Court, and prevent his escape in case he sought to evade service under the extradition warrants.

BLASPHEMY WARRANT AGAINST EDUCATOR IS WITHDRAWN

He Has Said "Sacco and Vanzetti
Were Anarchists, So Was Christ."

By the Associated Press.

ROSTON, Aug. 28.—A warrant charging Dr. Horace M. Kallen, New York sociologist, with blasphemy at a recent Sacco-Vanzetti memorial meeting, was withdrawn by Judge Murray in Municipal Court today. The warrant, under a law 231 years old, was issued when police took exception to an utterance of Dr. Kallen that "Sacco and Vanzetti were anarchists; Jesus Christ was an anarchist."

Judge Murray took this action pending a further investigation of the matter, but it was thought the charge would be dropped entirely.

Dr. Kallen had informed Gardner Jackson of the Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee, that he would come to Boston to accept service of the warrant and fight the case through to the end. He talked by long distance telephone from his farm at Bethel, Conn.

ACCOUNTING ASKED FOR ON FALL'S GIFT

They Say $100,000 Delivered to Cabinet Officer in Little Black Satchel Was a Bribe.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 28.—Edward L. Doheny and directors of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Co. today faced a bill of complaint demanding an accounting of $10,000,000 stockholders allege they lost in the fraudulent lease of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve.

The complaint, filed in behalf of Frank H. Kunkel of Cincinnati, and other shareholders, declares the loss resulted from the cancellation of the lease by a decision of the United States Supreme Court after the company had spent several million dollars in the development of the field.

The lease was negotiated for the Government by Albert B. Fall, then Secretary of the Interior. The $100,000 delivered to Fall by E. L. Doheny Jr. in the much-discussed "little black satchel" was declared in the suit to have been given by the stockholders and used as a bribe. An accounting of this exchange also is asked.

Kunkel sets forth in the complaint that neither he nor any of the plaintiff stockholders had any knowledge of the negotiations and describes Doheny's conduct of the deal as a "fraud not only against the United States but also against the Pan-American company and its stockholders." Doheny is charged with dominating the affairs of the company when the lease was signed.

The complaint further declares that since then Doheny has disposed of his controlling interest in the company to the Pan-American Eastern Petroleum Co., which is alleged to be controlled by the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana.

The suit demands that Doheny personally be compelled to reimburse the stockholders for the alleged losses.

Doheny refused to comment on the complaint, declaring he would submit it to his attorneys before making any announcement.

ALL POLICE STATIONS TO ACT AS EMPLOYMENT AGENCIES

Chief Gerk Issues Order, Effective
Tomorrow, to List Applicants for Jobs.

Every police station is to be a free employment agency for the benefit of the unemployed of the city, Chief of Police Gerk announced today. Beginning tomorrow, all citizens out of jobs are invited to file their names, addresses and kind of work preferred with the desk sergeants at the 14 police districts.

Patrolmen will make it their business to inquire at all business and industrial establishments concerning possible openings. Thus, according to Chief Gerk, a two-fold purpose will be served, business men will be assisted in finding suitable help and the number of unemployed in the city will be reduced.

TESTS IN LAYING CONCRETE RIVER BED UNDER WAY

To Prevent Cutting of Bottom by Impact of Water Flowing Over Dam.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 28.—Experiments in constructing a concrete river bed for the proposed flood prevention dam in the Mississippi River above New Orleans began today in the Ohio River just above Cincinnati, at Dam No. 36.

Assistant United States Engineer E. W. Buell, Cincinnati, who is conducting the experiment, said it has been found that water flowing over traps of a dam hit the river bed on a slope, bounce off at an angle and cut into the bed in a sloping direction. It is planned to concrete the bed of the Mississippi where the water strikes after flowing over the traps of the proposed dam. The experiments in the Ohio are to determine the distance the water bounces and will enable engineers to know where to concrete and reinforce the Mississippi River bed.

GLASGOW, Scotland, Aug. 28.—Incidents almost unprecedented in a British court occurred here today when Christian Ballie, 28 years old, was acquitted of a charge of culpable homicide in connection with the death of her husband.

The jury included several women, besides the forewoman, and these went unrestrainedly with many women in the courtroom, as they rendered the verdict.

The accused, leaving court, was carried shoulder high after she had testified that her husband was wild when intoxicated and that he had come home drunk. He demanded a meal when she had no food in the house for her four children.

He threatened her and broke a chair, whereupon she struck him with a knife. He died on the way to a hospital.

FUNERALS HELD FASCINATION FOR WOMAN POISONER

PAID FOR BURIAL OF ONE VICTIM

In Confession Says She Used Deadly Drug as Medicine and Thought It Would Help Others.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNION, Mo., Aug. 28.—A soft-spoken woman inordinately fond of attending sickbeds and funerals. That was the impression Mrs. Bertha Gifford, 56-year-old farm housewife, prostrated in jail here, made upon her neighbors. She has confessed poisoning three of nine persons who died under her roof in the space of a few years.

In winter or summer, if the roads were muddy or covered with ice, Mrs. Gifford could not be kept from sitting up with a sick neighbor, proffering advice as to drinks and lotions. Her lined, rather dull features softened when she talked of medicines, fever symptoms, strange maladies.

What bridge parties or matinees are to town women, sickbeds and funerals were to the suburban, plump woman with lustrous gray eyes who now sits frightened in the top cell tier of Franklin County jail. Accidents, too, fascinated her. On one occasion, according to persons who knew her well, she heard a man had been run over by a locomotive and jumped into her automobile to drive eight miles in order to view the victim. While other women covered their eyes, she stepped boldly forward and looked at the man.

Mrs. Bertha Gifford and Beulah Pounds, 3 years old, from a snapshot made in 1922.

The only funeral, apparently, not attended by Bertha Gifford in her period of 19 years' residence in and about Catawissa, was that of Beulah Pounds, 3-year-old daughter of Marguerite Pounds, Mrs. Gifford's cousin. The child died in Mrs. Gifford's home Dec. 27, 1922. The mother left the infant in Mrs. Gifford's care for several hours on the day preceding its death, and when she returned the child was ill and suffering from abdominal pain.

"My sister thought things looked funny because my father also died in Mrs. Gifford's house after he was taken with acute stomach pains there," the child's mother, Mrs. Marguerite Rosen, of Catawissa, said to the correspondent.

"She said something about having a post-mortem. Mrs. Gifford was usually a quiet woman but she certainly got mad. I asked about holding a post-mortem but people said it would cost me a lot of money. I didn't know the State held post-mortems. We just buried the child after the doctor treated it."

That was the only funeral of record Bertha Gifford missed. She attended all others, traveling sometimes 20 miles. She was a mourner also at the funerals of the Schamel children, sons of a hired man on the Gifford farm, whom she confessed she killed and she said for the embalming and burial of the body of "Ed" Brinley, the last of her victims. Public feeling following the Brinley death—she had been carried into the Gifford "house of mystery" near Catawissa after he had been found drunk in the road and developed "acute gastritis" within a few hours—brought about the investigation that resulted in her indictment on two charges of first degree murder in connection with two fatalities.

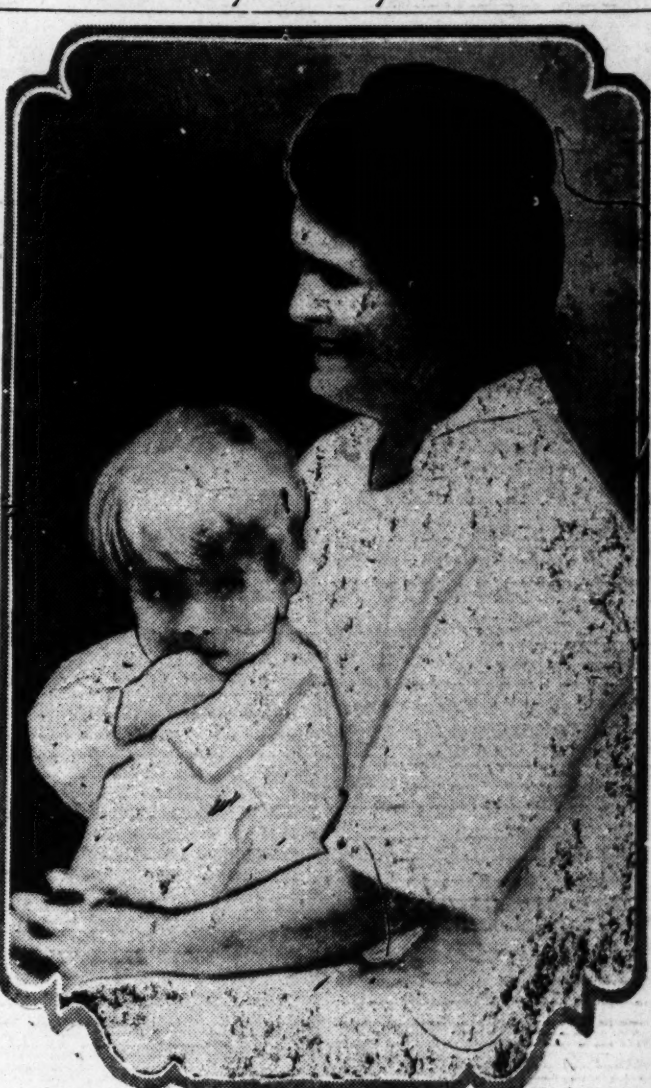

Says She Used Arsenic as Medicine. Mrs. Gifford, in her confession, said she wanted to aid, rather than harm her victims. She declared that she had used arsenic as a medicine for 20 years for herself and had frequently taken as much as the chemical as the surreptitiously fed to the persons who died. "Arsenic helped me," she said boldly when she was interrogated after her arrest last Saturday at her home near Eureka, in St. Louis County. "It relieved my high blood pressure. I thought it might help them."

Arsenic in small quantities is used in tonics, according to physicians, to stimulate metabolism or bodily tissue change. There are on record, also, persons known as arsenic eaters, who have built up an appetite for this poison and who can withstand greater amounts of it than ordinary persons. Dr. W. H. Hemphrey, family physician for the Giffords, to whose medicine Mrs. Gifford admitted she added arsenic, said he had never prescribed arsenical tonics for the poison.

DORIS STEVENS HELD FOR FEMINIST SORTIE WORKHOUSE TERM FOR DECEPTION IN "AD"

American Woman Spends Hours in French Police Station After Demonstration.

By the Associated Press.

RAMBOUILLET, France, Aug. 28.—Doris Stevens, American feminist leader, wife of Dudley Field Malone, lawyer, and three others of a group of feminists who appeared at the gates of the presidential chateau today in behalf of the equal rights movement, were held in custody at the police commissariat for several hours for failure to have their identity papers.

They were released at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon after all of the statesmen who had lunch with President Doumergue had gone. The women had sought a 10 minutes' audience with the President's guests who yesterday signed the Kellogg-Briand renunciation of war treaty. The plan of the feminists was to discuss with them a project for an international treaty establishing equal rights for men and women.

Those held over the noon hour with Miss Stevens were Mrs. Loring Pickering and Fanny Bunand of France. The women all went to Paris.

Miss Stevens is chairman of the committee on international action of the National Woman's party of the United States. For days the committee has been trying to induce the treaty signers to set forth their arguments for an equal rights treaty.

A group of women arrived before the gates of the chateau just as Secretary Kellogg's car drove up. They unfurled a banner on which was inscribed: "We demand an equal rights treaty." One end of the banner was guarded by a woman holding an American flag and another woman with the French colors was on the other extremity. A police officer made a running jump and grabbed the banner, handing it to a gendarme and ordering the group of women to disperse.

The petition which the women tried to present to President Doumergue read: "Having not yet received an appointment for a requested audience at Paris with plenipotentiaries who are to be your guests today, the Woman's Committee of International Action has sent its emissaries to ask a brief audience with them. We are at the gate."

TREATY NOW OPEN TO ADHERENCE BY ALL NATIONS

FRANCE INVITES RUSSIA TO JOIN

Kellogg Departs Tomorrow

Favorable Comment in Europe on Covenant.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 28.—The effect of the signing of the Kellogg-Briand war renunciation treaty was apparent today, for other nations have announced their desire to become parties of the pact.

The original signatures were still wet when telegrams and cables of adherence by other countries began to pour into Paris from the governments of Denmark, Jugo-Slavia, Rumania and Peru, expressing their wish to join the signers of the treaty.

The compact now is open to adherence by all nations. An official invitation to join in the pledge has been handed by the French Ambassador to Maxim Litvinoff, Russian Soviet Commissar for Foreign Affairs, at Moscow.

It is expected that at least a year will elapse before the treaty has been finally ratified by the original signatory nations.

Paris Celebrates Event. Congratulations still were being received by Foreign Minister Briand today while Parisians in general celebrated the event with appropriate calm and decorum. The boulevards and the sidewalk tables of the cafes were crowded until a late hour last night with people discussing the great occasion. Even habitual cynics were impressed and there was a feeling in the air that humanity has taken a stride forward.

Extremists made a few more efforts during the night to belittle the pact, but they hardly succeeded in doing more than afford amusement to the populace. Several taxicab loads of this element demonstrated on the Champs Elysees, but the police confiscated the cabs and arrested the occupants.

The prefect of police prevented any concerted demonstration by the simple process of detaining 60 of the most notorious extremist leaders.

Strenuous Day for Kellogg. A strenuous day, varied between Old World social functions and the latest thing in New World photography, led Secretary of State Kellogg to retire early tonight on the eve of his departure for Ireland tomorrow.

Kellogg arose at an early hour, lunched with President Doumergue at the historic old state castle at Rambouillet, attended a reception at the City Hall in the afternoon and posed for the color and talking movies.

The President's luncheon for the signers of the Kellogg-Briand war denunciation treaty culminated the social events given in honor of the visiting statesmen. The signers, except Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany, who departed for Baden Baden at noon and was represented by Ambassador von Hoesch, drove down to Rambouillet in automobiles along a highway closely patrolled by gendarmes.

Beau de Fouquieres, director of the presidential protocol, received the guests in the courtyard of the chateau and introduced them into the Marie Antoinette salon, where President Doumergue was waiting to greet them.

Luncheon in Brilliant Setting. Kellogg occupied the place of honor at Doumergue's right in the beautiful Rambouillet dining room, hung with a series of priceless Gobelin tapestries depicting Louis XIV in hunting scenes. At the President's left sat Foreign Minister Paul Hymans of Belgium, and next to him the American Ambassador, Myron T. Herrick. Premier

HOOVER CONFERS WITH LEADERS ON WAYS AND MEANS

Takes Up Question of Financing as Well as of Speaking Tours, It Is Understood.

WORK TO GO TO MAINE BEFORE ELECTION

Need of Giving Attention to Eastern States Impressed Upon Nominee by His Advisers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Turning aside momentarily from his study of the political situation in the East, Herbert Hoover today undertook to attend to questions which arose at Republican headquarters here during his absence in the West.

Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the National Committee, and others in the main office in Washington, were invited to the Republican candidate's S street home for conferences.

The visit here of former Representative William H. Hill, chairman of the Hoover-Curtis Campaign Committee in New York, was deferred until Thursday. Tomorrow Hoover will confer with Representative Walter F. Newton, chairman of the National Speakers' Bureau; James W. Good, Western manager; J. R. Nutt, national treasurer; and Jeremiah Millbank, Eastern treasurer.

These conferences will have to do with campaign financing as well as with speaking tours.

Announcement was made at headquarters that Chairman Work would go to Augusta, Me., to confer with a hundred or more State organization leaders Saturday. This meeting will have to do largely with the campaign for congressional and state officers in that state, which ends with the election on Sept. 10. Work will be accompanied by Frank W. Post of New Jersey, National Committee secretary, and Earl S. Kinsley, National Committee chairman for Vermont. National Committee chairman, Mrs. Guy P. Gannett, National Committee woman; Gov. Brewster, Daniel F. Fied state chairman, and the candidates for the Senate and House.

Reports received by Hoover since his return from the West indicate that the Eastern situation is one requiring attention, and his advisers are urging him to go into New York, Massachusetts and New Jersey for at least one speech for each state and more if time can be found for them.

To Speak in Chicago.

After he has canvassed the Eastern situation, he will be in a position to fairly well map out his campaign up to election time. It is certain that he will take advantage of his swing back to his home in California to vote for making a series of addresses. Whether he will take the Northern route home, through Wisconsin, Minnesota, Montana and Oregon, or the Southern route remains to be determined.

Before that time he probably will go into the Middle West, speaking at Chicago and some other cities, and also into the border states, but these addresses are likely to follow those in the East.

Some of his advisers think he should speak in New York and nearby States not later than early October.

Undecided in Labor Day Address.

Should Hoover decide to make a Labor Day address next Monday, it will be in Washington, with a radio hookup. It was stated today at his office. However, the candidate thinks the time is too short for the preparation of an address.

Hoover chose a house at 2312 Massachusetts avenue, for his personal headquarters during the campaign. The house was used as headquarters for the Chinese Commission to the arms conference several years ago. Negotiations for Congressional Freshing-up home were delayed by the death of the owner, so Hoover chose another place.

FOUR OTHER NATIONS ASK TO SIGN PACT TO ELIMINATE WAR

Poincare was seated directly opposite Kellogg.

All members of the Ministry present in Paris attended the luncheon, together with the diplomatic representatives of the signatory countries. The table was decorated with simple field flowers instead of exotic blossoms to accentuate the intimate character of the event.

After the toasts, President Doumergue led his guests back to the salon for coffee and conversation and later escorted them through the beautiful gardens and stately park of the chateau.

Moral Value of Treaty.

Commenting on the treaty, Lord Cusendun, who signed for Great Britain and Northern Ireland and separately in the name of King George V. for India, cautioned against the inference that Kellogg's activities in elaborating the pact meant that the United States would depart from its policy of aloofness toward European complications.

He emphasized the moral value of the treaty. Just as Napoleon once said that the great factor in war is the moral factor, so it is in peace, he said.

"No one imagines that signing of this treaty will immediately end finally banish war from the face of the earth," Lord Cusendun added. "That would be a mistake. It is possible that there still will be small wars somewhere on earth, but the moral value of the pact remains and that is the real value of this treaty."

No military note was present to mar the civic peace character of the proceedings. Floating flags of all nations adorned the Foreign Ministry Building, but not a single bayonet was in evidence. The authorities stressed the peacefulness of the day and Parisians having business in the neighborhood passed without interruption by police or military authorities.

Several thousands who watched the arrival and departure of plenipotentiaries were held on the sidewalk opposite the ministry and the parapets along the bank of the Seine by dismounted guards. But these guards were shorn of all their military display of plumed helmets and rattling sabers.

The sidewalk in front of the ministry was cleared for 10 yards on either side of the two entrance gates. Only those showing press cards or invitations to witness the ceremony were allowed to pass these lines.

Except for the flag of Soviet Russia, showing a gold hammer and sickle on a red background, there was nothing to indicate that Communists were present. The flag flew over the ministry with emblems of other nations.

No Communist Demonstration.

There had been much talk of a Communist manifestation, but it showed no sign of even starting. The only demonstration that might have been planned occurred when a squadron of Republican guards mounted and in full regalia, trotted past the ministry and deployed in the side streets. A few moments later a taxicab passed at full speed. It contained two men and an elderly woman who were shrieking in unison:

"Down with war! Down with the Kellogg pact!"

The crowd only grinned and police made no effort to interfere with the taxi.

Kellogg and all other visitors received cordial applause as they entered and left the ministry. Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany was the hero of the day to the crowd and an outburst of "bravo" greeted him when he came slowly down the steps.

Stresemann Deeply Moved.

Dr. Stresemann seemed deeply moved by the heartiness of the welcome for it brought color to his pallid face as he drove away.

Dr. Stresemann, the first German Foreign Minister officially received in Paris since the War of 1870, was the first to sign, followed by Secretary Kellogg. Foreign Minister Hymans of Belgium was third and Foreign Minister Briand, whose message to the Associated Press many months ago, was the origin of the pact which Secretary Kellogg developed and expanded, came fourth.

When Briand finished an address of welcome and the pact had been read, both were translated into English. This took 45 minutes and then the French Foreign Minister, after a burst of applause, rose and invited Stresemann to sign the historic instrument.

Stresemann wrote his signature quickly with Secretary Kellogg's pen, dipped in the inkstand which served for the signing of the Franco-American treaty negotiated by Benjamin Franklin.

Kellogg at Treaty Table.

Then at Briand's nod, Kellogg went to the treaty table and signed. The others followed in a steady procession, each taking an average of 40 seconds so that the signatures were completed in 10 minutes.

After Hymans had signed for Belgium and Briand for France, Lord Cusendun, acting British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, signed in behalf of the Kingdom of Great Britain. He was followed by Premier Mackenzie King of Canada; Alexander MacLachlin, member of the executive council for the Commonwealth of Australia; Sir Christopher Parr, New Zealand High Commissioner; for New Zealand; Jacobus Smits, South African Commissioner; for South Africa; and President Cochrane for the Irish Free State. Lord Cusendun then signed again for India. Count Manzoni signed for Italy. Minister Uchida for Japan. Foreign Minister Zaleski for Poland and Foreign Minister Benes for Czechoslovakia.

Last night Briand was host to a formal dinner to more than 100 guests, including the signatories of the treaty. The affair was given in the great dining room of the Foreign Office and was followed by a reception to which some 2000 persons representing fashion, finance, politics, army, navy and diplomacy were invited.

Three U. S. Admirals Present.

The American Navy were among the observers who witnessed the signing of the Kellogg-Briand treaty. They were Rear Admirals Guy H. Burrage, Albert P. Niblack and Robert E. Coontz. Mrs. Coontz accompanied her husband.

Among other Americans who were honored by invitations were: Secretary of Labor James J. Davis; Robert E. Olds, former Assistant Secretary of State; William Allen Butler, Kansas publisher; Pierre Butler, United States Supreme Court Justice and Mrs. Butler; Judge M. E. Henning, former Assistant Secretary of Labor; John B. Stetson, Minister to Poland; Robert Underwood Johnson, former Ambassador to Italy; Charles Dewey, financial adviser to Poland; former Mayor William F. Broening and Mrs. Broening of Baltimore; Mrs. James W. Scribner, chairman of the American League of Women Voters; Bilgey Carter, chairman of the United States Naval League of Paris; Percy Peixotto, president of the American Club of Paris; Dr. Carl D. Babcock, European representative of the Carnegie Peace Foundation; the Rev. Canon Gibbs of the American Cathedral of Paris, and the Rev. John Cochrane of the American Church of Paris.

Ratification of Treaty by Senate Appears Probable.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—What will the Senate do in the question which interests Washington, now that the Kellogg-Briand pact treaty has been signed, is the question that has been asked in the Senate.

The answer to it at this time is that there appears to be no reason why the pact should not be ratified promptly, but this view is qualified by the admission that many things can happen in international and domestic affairs before next winter to change the outlook.

Fortified by an undeniable public will toward international peace that will make armed conflict less likely and absolute the United States from foreign entanglements, the administration is expected to put the full force of its prestige behind the treaty when it is presented to the Senate. The view is that there undoubtedly will be opposition from some quarters, but, on the other hand, the treaty will have many friends.

In the light of facts as they now stand, Senator Borah seems certain to be in the latter group. As chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, he will be a key man in President Coolidge's request for ratification. The Senator is credited with having been fully informed while negotiations for the treaty were in progress and thus to have been given opportunity to present any objections. His full support, therefore, is counted upon by the administration.

What serious objections, if any, the members of the Senate would bring up to block the consent which is necessary to make the treaty binding upon the United States is at this time not altogether clear, since few Senators have expressed themselves on the subject.

The simple language of the treaty, the success of Secretary Kellogg in learning more and more about this human engineer and are developing a great sense of security in him and his ability to get things done. The result is a ground swell sweeping across the whole country that makes this forecast conservative.

Gov. Smith has promised relief. He has a record of never breaking a promise. The people of New York State know this and love and trust him. The people of the nation are learning more and more about this human engineer and are developing a great sense of security in him and his ability to get things done. Attacks Coolidge Administration.

Raskob attacked the Coolidge administration for failure to act farm relief legislation and announced that the Democratic organization had retained Edwin R. A. Seligman, professor of economics at Columbia University, to make a survey of farm conditions.

Raskob declared his principal purpose in the conferences today was to establish personal contact with the Democratic leaders of the eight states, and instill them with the same faith in Smith that leaders and voters of New York have in him.

In response to questions, he declared there was no inconsistency between the prohibition plank in the Democratic platform and Gov. Smith's declaration of moderate restriction of the Volstead act to restore local control of liquor traffic.

"The platform plank," he declared, "is merely a law enforcement plank. The party pledges its candidates to enforce prohibition so long as it is a law. Gov. Smith, in his speech of acceptance, pledged himself to enforce prohibition, and I want to say, if Smith is elected, there will be infinitely better enforcement of prohibition than under Republican administration."

Will Recommend Changes.

"Another section of the Constitution makes it the duty of the President to recommend to Congress such legislation as he deems advisable and necessary to the public welfare, and under this provision the Governor will recommend some changes in the Volstead law. There is no conflict between the platform and Smith upon that point. When he has made his recommendations it then is up to Congress to enact legislation to carry them out or to reject them."

Discussing his earlier forecast, Raskob was highly optimistic, though maintaining he was cautious and conservative. He was hopeful that Smith would carry Pennsylvania, strongly Republican, basing his claim largely on the thought that Smith's candidacy would appeal to the voters of wet

SALE OF ORIENT ROAD TO SANTA FE APPROVED

Interstate Commerce Commission Puts Its O K on Deal.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today approved the application of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Company to acquire control of the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railway Co. by the purchase of capital stock.

Already owning subscription rights to 150,000 shares of the Orient's capital stock, the Santa Fe Railway was authorized to acquire the 20,439 remaining shares at $415.50 a share, to total $14,507,500. All of the Orient's property, including cash and current assets, would be placed under the control of the Santa Fe Railway by the transaction. In announcing its decision, the commission said that competition between the two lines "is confined almost entirely to the territory between Wichita, Kan., and Chicago, O. The Santa Fe and Orient railroads are close together," and added: "Not more than 5 per cent of the total Orient traffic is competitive with the applicant's lines."

At the hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission W. T. Kemper, former secretary of the Orient and now its president, said his road would never be able to develop sufficiently to provide for the needs of its territory until it "found a banker," but that as part of the Santa Fe system it might become a useful and perhaps a profitable enterprise.

The New Orleans Joint Traffic Bureau opposed the deal on the ground that the sale would combine competing lines.

The Orient is 735 miles long and extends from Wichita, Kan., to Alpine, Tex.

Arthur Stillwell, builder of the Kansas City Southern, conceived the idea of building the Orient line.

COOLIDGE GIVES ROY WEST THRILL FISHING IN STORM

Lightning and Rain Fail to Drive in the Angler of the Brule.

By the Associated Press.

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 28.—A furious thunderstorm in the Brule Valley last night was not enough to keep President Coolidge indoors at Cedar Lodge.

He wanted to give Roy O. West, Secretary of the Interior, who was visiting him, a thrill, and he did. The President and West, with George Babb, guide, were on the river when the storm struck with a vivid display of lightning.

Secret service men were disturbed for the safety of the President, but Mr. Coolidge was out to fish, rain or no rain, and it was nearly 10 o'clock before he took Secretary West back to the lodge.

Hawes of St. Louis, regional chairman. Senator Hawes had boarded the train at Terre Haute, Ind.

The men of the party, with United States Senator Lawrence D. Tyson of Tennessee and W. T. Kemper of Kansas City, Democratic National Committeeman for Missouri, were taken to the Log Cabin Club where they were the dinner guests of Eugene Angert and W. Frank Carter. The names of about 20 St. Louisans who also were guests were not given out.

The three women of the party and Mrs. Florence G. Farley of Kansas, chairman of women's activities in this region, were dinner guests of Mrs. Angert at her home at Clayton and Kent roads, St. Louis County.

Raskob had prepared his election forecast to the train and issued it in typewritten form when he arrived in St. Louis.

Outlook Never Better.

"Never has the outlook for the Democratic party been better," his statement said. "I prophesy that Smith and Robinson will get the greatest popular vote ever accorded a presidential candidate in the history of our country."

"There is great unrest and dissatisfaction throughout the farm belt on account of the unkept promises of the Republican party in 1920 and 1924. Big business and our best economists appreciate the fact that continued prosperity in our country is absolutely dependent upon increasing purchasing power of the farmer. The Republicans have failed to appreciate this with the result that the farmer and the small business man, dependent upon him, have suffered unnecessarily."

309 Electoral Votes Claimed For Gov. Smith by Raskob

CLASSIFYING the 531 electoral votes of the United States, John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, issued a formal statement here last night in which he claimed as certain 309 electoral votes in 27 states for Gov. Smith, or 43 more than the necessary majority of 266.

Six other states with 38 votes he classified as "of little doubt," and summed up the remaining 15 states with 184 votes as "fighting ground."

His analysis follows: "It is difficult to accurately forecast the result of an election. I am very sure, however, that with the information I hand any reasonably prudent business man would at this time classify the following states, having 309 electoral votes, in the Smith-Robinson column, namely:

Alabama	12	Montana	4
Arizona	8	Nebraska	5
Arkansas	9	New Jersey	11
California	12	New Mexico	3
Colorado	6	New York	45
Florida	6	Nevada	3
Georgia	14	North Carolina	12
Kentucky	13	Oklahoma	10
Louisiana	10	Rhode Island	5
Maryland	10	South Carolina	8
Massachusetts	13	Texas	20
Minnesota	12	Virginia	12
Mississippi	14	Wisconsin	13
Missouri	18	Tennessee	12

"In addition there seems little doubt that Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wyoming with a total of 38 votes should also be classified for Smith and Robinson, making a total of 347 votes or 81 more than the 266 necessary for election."

"This leaves states with 184 votes, every one of which is fighting ground and there is good indication that the Democratic ticket will get more than 100 of these."

FOUR SLAIN, ONE WOUNDED; JEALOUS HUSBAND ACCUSED

Sacramento, Cal., Ex-Convict Estranged From Wife, Arrested, but Denies Killings.

TWO OF VICTIMS HIS BROTHERS-IN-LAW

That Is Cousin by Marriage—All Are Found Shot to Death at Different Places.

By the Associated Press.
SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 28.—The killing of four men and wounding another, was ascribed by police here today to the insane jealousy of a former convict over the affections of his estranged wife and the custody of his little daughter.

The suspected slayer, Percy T. Barnes, 35 years old, a railroad employee, surrendered and asserted his innocence when surrounded by a posse of officers at Stockton, south of here, last night, after they had followed the trail of murder for several hours in that direction. Heavily armed, Barnes at first denied he had done the killings and declared he was not aware that he was in Stockton.

The victims were, Charles E. Curtis, brother-in-law of Barnes; Charles Klein, another brother-in-law, Len Gearhart, Barnes' cousin by marriage, and Clarence and Muncy, who had been visiting at the home of Mrs. Della Barnes. He died today.

M. H. Larkin, president of a transportation company, who apparently was an innocent bystander, was wounded. Mrs. Barnes is separated from the ex-convict by an interlocutory decree of divorce.

Wife's Home Guarded.

Sacramento police were thrown into confusion as, one by one, the reports of the murders came into headquarters. After the shooting of Muncy had been reported, police there a guard around Mrs. Barnes' home. They previously had been alerted by alleged threats from the part of the former convict against Mrs. Barnes and her relatives.

Witnesses said Barnes went to the home of his wife and on finding Muncy there, engaged in a quarrel with him and shot him near the head.

Then Barnes apparently went to the Curtis home, where his daughter is being kept pending final disposal of the divorce case. He was said to have demanded the girl. Curtis is said to have refused and was killed with a bullet through his heart. Members of the Curtis household notified police they had seen Barnes running from the scene.

Shot Aiding Dying Man.
Police who by this time were searching everywhere for the former convict, traced him to a point near the State fair grounds where Gearhart was found with a bullet through his head. Before Gearhart's body was in the morgue Klein was found fatally wounded on a highway leading toward Stockton. Larkin, who was passing in an automobile, had seen Klein and another man arguing in the road. Suddenly the other man drew a pistol and shot Klein twice. Klein, sighting Larkin's automobile, began to motor to a hospital, but was cut short by his assailant, who with an oath turned his revolver on the motorist, who managed to make a getaway with the dying man in spite of having received two bullets in the shoulder. He was compelled to stop at a roadside, where Klein died. His story put the officers on guard in Stockton, where other relatives of Mrs. Klein, fearing for their lives, were guarded by the police.

Barnes, when grilled this morning by officers, named an alleged accomplice, L. R. Coburn, 26, a fellow employee in the Southern Pacific shops here, as responsible for the shooting of three.

That Coburn joined him at a restaurant where they decided to go to the home of Barnes' wife. The visit was made and Muncy was said to have been there. In the argument which followed, Barnes said, Muncy ordered him to leave, after striking him. "I then struck him," Barnes said. On leaving the house, Barnes continued, Coburn said, "Well, we're in bad now. Let's get a few more."

"We then drove to Charles Curtis' home and I shot Curtis," said Barnes. "Then we went to Len Gearhart's and Charles Klein's houses and both men were invited out and shot by Coburn. Coburn shot M. H. Larkin when he attempted to aid Klein, when he approached his car, badly wounded and asked for help."

Confession Not Believed.
Police said that they attached little credence to the "confession." The two men are said to be enemies and records of the Sheriff's office show that Coburn called up the Sheriff's office at the time of the murders and asked for protection, as Barnes was "on a rampage."

Police believe that enmity between Barnes and Coburn as well as jealousy of Barnes toward Muncy, who was said to have held the affections of Mrs. Barnes, was responsible for the killings.

Women Aids Full of Zeal For Smith's Candidacy

Ex-Gov. Nellie Ross, Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt and the Nominee's Pretty Daughter, Mrs. Warner, All Striking Personalities.

By Marguerite Martyn.

CHARGED with energy and enthusiasm their ardor not abated by the hot trip from New York, three women who accompanied National Chairman Raskob to the Democratic regional conference arrived at Hotel Jefferson at 5:30 o'clock yesterday willing, eager to be interviewed at once, not even asking for a few minutes to change to remove the stains of travel.

They are former Gov. Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming, now first vice chairman of the women's division of the Democratic National Committee; Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, member of the advisory committee headed by Senator Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island, and Mrs. John Warner, elder daughter of the Democratic nominee for President. They were met at Terre Haute by Mrs. Florence G. Farley of Kansas, chairman of women's activities in this region who is attached to headquarters here.

All except Mrs. Roosevelt will go on to the Hot Springs to hear Senator Robinson accept the Vice Presidential nomination. Mrs. Roosevelt will return to New York following the conference. "Much as I should like to hear Senator Robinson's speech, it is not the place of an office worker such as I am, to go gadding about so far from headquarters when there is so much work to be done," she says.

Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt.

Tall, broad shouldered, though of slender build, with a distinctively cultivated voice and manner of speaking, Mrs. Roosevelt is a type of modern college woman who combines domestic interests with wider activities. She has five children and one grandchild, she informed me before I had time to make the usual inquiries about her family. Her home is in Dutchess County, New York. Her chief interests outside Democratic organization work have been the betterment of conditions in rural life and small communities. She has been head of departments on rural life and household economics in a committee composed of heads of all women's organizations co-operating with extension work of the State University, which departments have their seat at Cornell in Ithaca.

Establishing industries allied with farm work, such as furniture factories in which some of the early American styles of cabinet work have been revived, weaving, rug-making, canning and preserving, through which women and children can find means of providing themselves with modern comforts and equipment in the farm house, wider contacts and outlets for their creative faculties, have been some of her accomplishments.

Active Among the Farmers.
Accompanying Mrs. O'Day, State Committeewoman, it has long been a habit to visit every county in the State at least once in two years, interesting themselves in farm problems while spreading Democratic propaganda.

So it will be seen here is one member of the party councils to whom farm relief problems are not a new or unfamiliar subject. This is her first visit west except for a five weeks' campaign tour when her husband was the nominee for Vice President in 1920.

"From hundreds of letters I have received I judge women out here are keenly interested in this campaign," Mrs. Roosevelt began. "I came to learn more about conditions and establish a more intimate relation between headquarters and women workers in the States. Our special appeal to women is our candidate's record on problems relating to women."

She could go on endlessly telling of that record; his bills on behalf of women in industry; his housing commission, of which she was a member, established during the crisis in house shortage just after the war, which found a way of stabilizing rents by preventing the eviction of tenants who could claim they had no place else to go and providing means of obtaining means of obtaining money for home building on easy terms. His bills which resulted in doubling the pay of school teachers. The mother's pension bill passed by a hostile Legislature upon the Governor's plea that "no institution is as good as a good mother."

His bills effecting economy in administration, bills on behalf of conservation, and bills that have brought State institutions up to a high standard, all these in Gov. Smith's record on social and humanitarian aims and accomplishments should have their special appeal to women as against the opposing candidate's record in office associated mainly with big business, she thought.

Ex-Gov. Nellie Ross.

All this time Mrs. Roosevelt had been urging that I first see "Governor" Ross, "whose services we are so glad to have, not only because of her picturesque appeal as a woman Governor who made good, but also because she has developed with her experience into a most able and convincing speaker."

This I found to be true. The sad, grief-stricken woman, still submerged by her sorrow whom I was gadding about so far from headquarters when there is so much work to be done, she said. "I had better not undertake the trip. I was made a delegate to the convention, you know, though I had nothing to do with it. The Democrats of Albany elected me an alternate while I was in Europe. Then afterward, when the delegate from Troy died and his alternate was absent in Europe, they made me a full-fledged delegate. I should have had the opportunity to vote for my father's nomination. Otherwise I have never taken an active part in politics and probably never shall. In the meantime, though, I enjoy being an onlooker from my front row seat."

Asks for 27th Ward Account.

Suit for a recount of primary election returns was filed today by George J. Weber, defeated candidate for the Republican Committee in the Twenty-seventh Ward, against Henry W. Dawson, who was re-elected by a majority of 27 votes. Weber, who received 2335 votes, charges he was deprived of votes by officials who told a number of his supporters the polls were closed prior to 7 p. m. Through a mistake of names, he further alleges, 100 votes intended for him were credited to A. S. Weaver, the third candidate.

For Prohibition Referendum.

"Prohibition is a subject charged with dynamite, yet see how unflinchingly our candidate has approached it," he said. "He is asking for a referendum. People on both sides of the question say they are afraid of a referendum. I am not. I am dry, but the most avowed prohibitionist will admit conditions are anything but satisfactory as they are. The people have the right to change their Constitution. The President himself has no power and Gov. Smith has said he would never be a nullifier. If by a vote of the people the prohibition law remains unchanged, people may depend upon Gov. Smith will bring to its enforcement courage and resourcefulness that have been lacking in Federal officialdom the last eight years."

"A referendum is the most democratic way of settling the issue. No one can say the people have no right to change their Constitution. It belongs to them. If we never had changed it we never should have had abolition of slavery, enfranchisement of women nor any other of the amendments."

"I believe women will take a more active part in the coming election than ever before because of issues involved, and it is high time they were assuming their civic duties. Let them remember that our grandmothers urged upon reluctant men that if only they would give us the ballot, we would purify politics. This campaign puts it, squarely up to the women the questions: Will they condone the flagrant offenses in high places that have been committed the last eight years that the Republican party has been in power, or will they go to the polls and serve notice upon the offenders that those who betray public trust do so at the deadly peril of losing the woman vote?

"There is no obligation resting upon us now so solemn as seeing idealism restored to government."

Governor's Daughter Pretty.

Gov. Smith's daughter, Mrs. Warner, I am sure, will not object to being referred to as "window trimming" that term which political writers apply to picturesque figures enlisted in campaigns for publicity purposes. At least she is most decorative.

A pretty, slender slip of a girl she looks, though she is the mother of a husky looking 18-month-old child, whose portraits, one in the arms of his illustrious grandfather, another in the arms of his proudly smiling grandmother, were the first objects removed from her suitcase and placed upon her dressing table. Slipping from a smart dark blue crepe into a beflowered kimono, she faced her interviewer, smiles covering the restraint imposed upon a candidate's daughter. She speaks with a high-bred, finishing school intonation and has all the poise and self-possession to be expected of a young woman whose contacts have been many and varied as a resident for 12 years in the executive mansion of the Empire State.

There is nothing blase about her. Assuming an unimportant role, apparently she is enjoying herself thoroughly.

"I was allowed to come to represent the family at Senator Robinson's acceptance ceremonies because I was disappointed at not getting to go to Houston with my mother and brothers," she said. "I had been ill and they thought I had better not undertake the trip. I was made a delegate to the convention, you know, though I had nothing to do with it. The Democrats of Albany elected me an alternate while I was in Europe. Then afterward, when the delegate from Troy died and his alternate was absent in Europe, they made me a full-fledged delegate. I should have had the opportunity to vote for my father's nomination. Otherwise I have never taken an active part in politics and probably never shall. In the meantime, though, I enjoy being an onlooker from my front row seat."

South Flooded With Attacks Upon Smith and Catholicism

Pat Harrison Declares Some of Bitter Propaganda Pertains to Alleged K. of C. Oath.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The New York Times says Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who represents the Southern states on the Advisory Committee of the Democratic National Committee, declares the South is being flooded with anti-Catholic and anti-Smith propaganda.

"I never saw anything so bitter as the campaign now being waged against Gov. Smith in the South," Harrison adds. "It will not say it has been launched and is being maintained by the Republican National Committee, but if not, somebody very close to the Republicans is sending out the false and misleading propaganda, based on misrepresentation and untruth."

"The mails are being flooded with this stuff. Some of it pertains to an alleged oath of the Knights of Columbus."

When Standing Is Brutal Punishment

You Wonder If There Is Any Permanent Relief. There Is!

Standing all day long—and then perhaps standing on the car going home. How miserably long the hours seem—and how painful and torturous feet that are not right can become.

Any relief is welcome—but relief that does not correct the condition causing the pain and discomfort is but temporary. Our method is successful, because we work with and not against nature. There is no painful forcing of the bones and muscles into position. By our method there is a gradual readjustment of the foot structure to normal comfort, strength and shapeliness.

If you have disordered feet, fallen arches, aching burning feet, or other foot troubles, consult us. Free examination places you under no obligation. Phone for an appointment, or come in—today.

TWO MEN AND BOY HIT BY AUTOS DIE OF INJURIES

Joseph Galvin, 50, Hugo Christopher, 65, and D. W. Vance, 5-Year-Old Negro Succumb.

Joseph Galvin, 55 years old, 2548 Page avenue, a bricklayer, died early today at Alexian Brothers Hospital of a fractured skull suffered a week ago when he was struck by an automobile driven by John Huff, 3118 Miami street, at Broadway and Malt street.

Hugo Christopher, 65, 2926 Eads avenue, died at City Hospital late yesterday of a skull fracture suffered Sunday when struck by an automobile driven by Vincil A. Brady, 5906 Columbia avenue, at 1734 Chouteau avenue.

Donald W. Vance, 5-year-old Negro, 2103 Bell avenue, died soon after noon today of injuries suffered an hour earlier when he was struck by an automobile driven by Charles N. Schaffer of 4453 San Francisco avenue, as he attempted to cross Garrison avenue north of Franklin avenue.

There have been 115 motor vehicle fatalities so far this year, a new high record. In 1925 when a year's record of 192 fatalities was set, there were 113 up to Aug. 28.

A man killed Sunday by a Ford truck at Manchester and Sublette avenues was erroneously reported to have been John Lyons, formerly of Father Dempsey's Home, Sixth and Biddle streets. He has been identified as John De Coesey, 55, who lived near an unmarked establishment at 3349 Windsor place, where he was employed.

Lyons also was hit by the truck and suffered a fractured skull. He is at City Hospital and has a chance to recover.

The two men were walking together. The driver of the truck fled. De Coesey died several hours after the accident at City Hospital. Attendants thought it was Lyons who died, and police reported his death. The mistake was discovered when friends of Lyons called at the morgue.

A coroner's jury today returned a verdict of homicide after an inquest into the death of De Coesey, who was named in the verdict as John Webb. There was no witness to the accident, but a storekeeper near the scene testified that a man who refused to give his name reported a license number which he said was struck by the automobile that struck De Coesey. The number, records show, was issued to a man in Central, Mo.

SOUTH FLOODED WITH ATTACKS UPON SMITH AND CATHOLICISM

Pat Harrison Declares Some of Bitter Propaganda Pertains to Alleged K. of C. Oath.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The New York Times says Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who represents the Southern states on the Advisory Committee of the Democratic National Committee, declares the South is being flooded with anti-Catholic and anti-Smith propaganda.

"I never saw anything so bitter as the campaign now being waged against Gov. Smith in the South," Harrison adds. "It will not say it has been launched and is being maintained by the Republican National Committee, but if not, somebody very close to the Republicans is sending out the false and misleading propaganda, based on misrepresentation and untruth."

"The mails are being flooded with this stuff. Some of it pertains to an alleged oath of the Knights of Columbus."

Children Crowd Park for City Playground Festival

Athletic Contests and a Pantomime, "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," Feature 22d Yearly Celebration.

Children by thousands flocked into Forest Park today for their biggest outdoor day of the year. The twenty-second Municipal Playground Festival, which annually, in recent years, has assembled from 12,000 to 18,000 happy and hungry youngsters.

Grown-ups were admitted to the park, but it was distinctly not their day—not until 4 p. m. That is the traditional hour when hundreds of child dancers, thousands of child spectators and more thousands of papas and mamas move into the municipal theater.

This year "The Pied Piper of Hamelin" frisked and piped across the stage, where grown-ups, in years past, have been reintroduced to Ali Baba, Aladdin, Snow-White and Little Red Riding Hood. Rats and cats and dogs, the "paddy" Mayor and bloated Corporation—and the little lame boy who brought the Piper and the children back to their homes—all were there, right before the eyes of any doubting Thomas just turned 9 or 49.

The children's day began at 10 this morning, when they had their choice of watching two baseball games, horse-shoe pitching, handball or volleyball, each for a playground championship. From then until nearly 3 o'clock the athletic program left not a minute with not a child out of the park. That is, with the major exception of lunch-time, to which a full hour and a half was devoted.

THREE SAVED AFTER CLINGING ALL NIGHT TO CAPSIZED BOAT

Fourth Thought to Have Drowned in Effort to Reach Shore of Lake Michigan.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—One youth is thought to have drowned and another and two girl companions were rescued today by coast guards after clinging all night and part of the day to an overturned sloop on which they went for a sail in Lake Michigan last night.

The boat, carrying young people prominent in North Shore society circles, overturned while three and one-half miles out from Wilmette Harbor and was found this afternoon when sea planes and coast guard boats began searching the north shore waters.

Those on the sloop were Marjory Olson, 17 years old, Westnetka, daughter of a vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago; Shirley Conlee, 18, Kenilworth, daughter of a Chicago broker; Harold Tarrant, 20, Northwestern University student, and Fred Rummel, 21, son of a Chicago patent attorney.

The boat overturned at 10 o'clock last night and the young people clung to it until 9 o'clock this morning when Rummel left to try to swim ashore. He is thought to have drowned. At 11 o'clock this morning the Olson girl left the boat also in an attempt to swim ashore. She had proceeded about half way when a coast guard boat met her. The other couple was found still clinging to the boat and the three were taken to a hospital in a serious condition from exposure.

BOONVILLE BOYS MAKE BREAK AT BALL GAME

Ten Captured but Three Escape—Two Others Flee Reformatory.

A hot baseball game on the open playground at the Missouri Reformatory at Boonville was suddenly broken up in the seventh inning Sunday afternoon when 13 of the players—including a St. Louis County bank robber, parole violator, holdup man and juvenile delinquents—threw away their gloves and bats and ran for liberty.

Attendants who had been supervising activities on the playground pursued the players who fled and captured 10 of them hiding in and around Boonville, after some of them had tried unsuccessfully to steal two automobiles to expedite their flight. A train had departed a short time before the break.

Three Still at Large.

Three of the 13 still at large, and Supt. Harrison of the Reformatory has asked St. Louis police to look for them. They are Andrew Eigenbrod of Kirkwood, who was serving a 10-year term for the recent holdup of the Old Orchard Bank in Webster Groves; John Bruley of St. Louis, a delinquent and parole violator, and Joe Andrews of Kansas City.

There were 70 members of Company E on the playground and only 13 ran away, Supt. Harrison said today. The playground is about four blocks square and about a half block from the main building. Company E includes adult first offenders as well as juvenile delinquents.

Two Others Inmates Escape.

Two more inmates ran away last night and are sought. They are Arthur Gann of St. Louis, serving two five-year terms for two store holdups, and Theodore Raby of Fredericktown, sentenced to 10 years for burning a schoolhouse. Raby was paroled once, but went back to the reformatory when he married a 14-year-old girl. Raby and Gann were trustees and assistants to the night watchman. After having midnight lunch, they slipped away. Supt. Harrison is investigating a report that a relative of one of the men came for them with an automobile.

Harrison was severely rebuked by the State Penal Board recently for granting "vacation privileges" in St. Louis to a schoolhouse gangster and double murderer.

BROKER SUES FOR $50,000 ON OLD INSURANCE CONTRACT

Alleges Company's Efforts to Sell to International Life Ruined His Business.

Suit for $50,000 damages for alleged breach of contract was filed in Circuit Court today by Dean Whitman, an insurance broker, against the Illinois Bankers' Life Association, which has headquarters at Monmouth, Ill.

The petition recites that in January, 1924, Whitman was granted the exclusive agency to sell insurance for the company for 10 years in 13 Missouri and three Illinois counties. Whitman and sub-agents sold $1,412,500 worth of insurance the first two years, the petition states. The following year, however, they were able to sell but $350,000 worth and in May, 1927, Whitman's contract was canceled. Whitman alleges that the contract was terminated illegally. He charges that the poor business in 1926 was the result of an effort of the directors of the Bankers' Life Association to sell out to the International Life Insurance Co. for a price reported to be $750,000. Rumors of the deal, which failed to materialize, reached the sub-agents and they quit, Whitman says in his suit. The company subsequently was changed over to the legal reserve system; its assets being transferred to the Illinois Bankers' Life Insurance Co.

FUNERALS HELD FASCINATION FOR WOMAN POISONER

soner, and was not aware she habitually took the poison in any quantity.

Two Pictures of Mrs. Gifford.

She was apparently a person of two characters. Men who visited at the home of "Gene" Gifford, affable jesting farmer, who had good luck with his hogs and his corn, were not much impressed with Mrs. Gifford, except as a cook. As a personality, they found her silent, colorless. They talked much of the influence she exerted on the popular "Gene," causing him to move from farm to town, inducing him to stay at home when he had arranged to go elsewhere. She brought in the food, waited on the table, answered in monosyllables if spoken to. A physician who attended her family regarded her as feeble-minded. And yet on one occasion she threatened a Government agent with a revolver when he was looking for a still on her farm. She was herself a rabid dry and it is said had been made an authorized prohibition agent. Neighborhood gossip mentions this in connection with the death of two persons—one of them her uncle—who had been brought into her home intoxicated.

The women who visited her, or who helped her cook, report without exception an opinion that she was a strong personality with a peculiar relish for stories of illness, operations, deeds of violence. She studied reports of the Snyder-Gray murder and frequently regaled her kitchen audience with comment on the case as she pattered about the stove, salting the potatoes or turning the pork. She thought Mrs. Snyder was "a weak fool" to confess. She did not read books or magazines. Newspapers alone drew her attention. She turned to a murder story as unfailingly, say persons close to her, as a banker turns to the financial section.

She was the town beauty, says report, when she kept a house with her first husband, Hillboro, Mo. She met Gifford then, liked him, and apparently saw much of him before the death of her first husband.

"Gene Gifford was a changed man after he met her," said a person close to the family. "He was engaged to one of the best women in this county when he met Bertha Graham—remember she was a married woman—and he just broke it off. After Graham died, Gifford married Mrs. Graham. Then they moved to Catawissa. Gene was always popular but people never understood Bertha. She was too peculiar. They forgave her a lot because she always helped when anybody got sick."

Often Bought Poison.

The soft-spoken woman, who gathered details of illness from a bedridden farmer or his wife, and whose solicitude was on occasion the subject of praise, was periodically making visits to drugstores in Pacific, Mo., the Grand Jury investigation disclosed. She carried home packets of arsenic. She told the druggists she wanted arsenic to poison rats that were after her Rhode Island Reds. The druggists assumed the rats must be abundant because she bought "lots" of poison.

Neighbors say that James Louis Ogle, Gifford's hired man who died Nov. 20, 1927, of acute gastritis according to the death certificate, told them two days before his death that he planned to sue the Giffords for $300 he asserted they owed him.

Mrs. Gifford—sunburned, plump, with her leaden gray eyes and her stringy bobbed hair, once a local beauty and now a rather frayed farm woman, her one piece of jewelry a large gold-band wedding ring—will have to occupy her Franklin County cell for months to come before she can be arraigned on the two murder charges growing out of the death of Lloyd Schamel, 9 years old, Aug. 11, 1925, and of Ed Brinley, heavy-drinking farmer, on May 16, 1927. The Circuit Court does not meet in Union Mo., until next November, and she cannot plead to the charges until then.

She has retained W. L. Cole, local attorney, who has advised her to say nothing. To a Post-Dispatch reporter, Cole declared his client had already said too much. He referred, doubtless, to her confession to Chief of Police Andrew McDonnell of Webster Groves, in which Mrs. Gifford admitted poisoning the two Schamel boys and Ed Brinley.

Mrs. Gifford was in a state of collapse up to yesterday afternoon. She had eaten nothing since Saturday and had wept much in her cell. Late yesterday afternoon ice cream was offered to her and she accepted it. Since then she has eaten regularly and appears almost cheerful.

ENTERS 20-MILE SWIM AT 48

Patrolman to Participate in Labor Day Event.

When Patrolman Joseph Martin, who remains an athlete at the age of 48 years, is not walking his beat in the Angelica street district, he is, among other things, practicing for marathon swims and hikes.

Recently he petitioned the Police Board to permit him to enter a 20-mile swim to be held Labor Day from Canton, Mo., to Quincy, Ill., under auspices of the Quincy (Ill.) Y. M. C. A., and today his request was granted. Patrolman Martin won a similar marathon against a large field in 1925. In 1926 he finished second. "But this year I feel younger than ever," he said, "and I have a hunch I'll win." Patrolman Martin lives with his three grown children at 2325 Keweenaw avenue.

TWO BOARDS REPORT ON SCHOOL CHILDREN'S HEALTH

Hygiene Division Extends Its Activities to Group of Pre-Kindergarten Age.

The health of St. Louis school children has been safeguarded during the last year through visits and examinations by representatives of the Hygiene Division of the Board of Education and the Catholic School Health Bureau, according to reports just issued by those organizations.

Through invitation of the Hygiene Division, 1010 children of pre-kindergarten age were examined by school physicians. Of these 681 were found to have physical defects; 435 defective teeth; 309 enlarged tonsils and adenoids; 80 defective vision; 50 communicable or noncommunicable diseases; 24 hernia; 16 defective hearing, and 16 orthopedic defects.

In giving health service to 100 parochial schools in the city and the county, the Catholic School Health Bureau made 2804 visits to children needing medical attention, according to its first annual report. In addition it referred 1571 children to clinics. The bureau, said to be the first of its kind in the United States, is supervised by the St. Louis University Medical School and is financed through the Council of Catholic Women.

U. S. WRITS FOR SIX IN OBREGON MURDER

Fugitives, One a Priest, Sought in New York for Murder and Bombings.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Six Mexicans, charged with complicity in the assassination of President-elect Obregon and the bombing of two public buildings in Mexico City, were sought in New York today.

Federal warrants for their arrest by United States Commissioner O'Neill on orders issued from Washington after a request by the Mexican Ambassador.

Those sought are Manuel Trejo Morales, Joaquin Navarro Becerra, Cevaldo Robles Ochoa, Jose A. Jimenez, Enrique N. Zepeda and Aniceto Ortega.

Jimenez is a Catholic priest who visited Jose de Leon Toral, confessed slayer of Obregon on the morning of July 17, a few hours before the murder.

Trejo has been mentioned in dispatches from Mexico City as the person who furnished De Leon Toral the pistol he used in the assassination. He is 21 years old, the youngest of the men sought. The oldest is 35.

The two bombings with which the men are charged were in the cloakroom of the Chamber of Deputies, May 23, and at Obregon's political headquarters, May 30. There were no casualties in either.

If the men are arrested they are expected to fight extradition to Mexico, which would entail a hearing here. Enough of the evidence against them to prove the charges would have to be presented before a United States Commissioner.

The men probably would plead that their offenses were political ones and therefore not extraditable under the treaty of 1899.

Murder and bombing of a public building are extraditable offenses under the treaty, but one article says that "where the crime or attempted crime charged shall be of a purely political character extradition shall not take place."

Another article holds that an attempt on the life of the head of the Government shall not be considered a political offense.

9-FOOT CHANNEL TO
MINNEAPOLIS URGEDValley Association Protests
Against Engineer's Adverse Report.

Upper Mississippi shippers are urging Major-General Edgar Jadwin by telegraph, to consider the feasibility of a nine-foot channel to Minneapolis, the Mississippi Valley Association announced here yesterday, following an adverse preliminary report by Maj. C. I. Hall, district engineer at Rock Island.

Maj. Hall, the association stated, had judged potential tonnage would not warrant a survey for a nine-foot channel. Brigadier-General Thomas H. Jackson, president of the Mississippi River Commission and division engineer for the Western division, said no report from Maj. Hall yet had reached him.

Lachlan Maclean, secretary of the association, cited surveys of the Department of Commerce indicating that present large lines carry but a fraction of the tonnage available, and declared that the entire capacity of the Upper River line, now operating on the basis of a six-foot channel, was allotted for the remainder of the season and it would be impossible to handle 4,000,000 of 5,000,000 bushels of grain waiting at Minneapolis and St. Paul for export.

"To try and operate partly on a nine-foot channel and partly on a six-foot channel throughout the great tonnage producing area of the Middle West is exactly the same as trying to operate a railroad where part of the mileage is narrow gauge and part standard gauge type," Maclean said. The economics of water transportation will be lost to a "damaging degree" if by use of channels of various dimensions it becomes necessary to transfer cargoes from small fleets to large fleets and vice versa.

"It costs no more to tow a barge that draws eight feet on a nine-foot channel than it does to tow a barge loaded to five feet on a six-foot channel. The per-ton costs will not be higher. Nine foot channels mean that barges loaded at Pittsburgh can move through to Minneapolis, and that barges loaded at Chicago can be moved to Pittsburgh and New Orleans traveling the main channels in the valley without breaking bulk along the route.

"The Government has invested too great a sum in inland waterways to protect that investment by using common-sense business judgment in the development of its inland waterways to standard depth wherever the costs of the physical improvement is not prohibitive. All we ask of the Government is to approve a survey to determine the physical cost of a nine-foot depth. This Maj. Hall is reported to have refused to do on the ground that such survey is not warranted by the commercial possibilities of the proposed nine-foot waterway."

THREE OF BUTCHER'S LETTERS
TO MRS. MELLUS FOUNDKelley, On Trial for Her Murder.
Points Out Secret Compartments Containing Notes.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 28.—Three letters containing fervid expressions of affection, written to Mrs. Myrtle Mellus by Leo P. Kelley, her admirer, shortly before her death, today held the attention of the prosecution and defense in the trial of the butcher for her murder. The letters, together with a photograph of Kelley, were found secreted in false bottoms of drawers of Mrs. Mellus' dressing table when the entire court went to the cellars yesterday. Kelley pointed out the secret compartments of the court with the comment they contained "something interesting."

James P. Costello, Deputy District Attorney, refused to make the letters public, but newspapers learned that the letters, addressed "Dear Myr" and signed "Daddy," told of Kelley's love for "My Dearest Girl."

Writing of her husband, Frank Mellus, wealthy and prominent sportsman, Kelley said: "How does he spend his time down there (Ensenada, Lower California)—fishing? Well, I hope he falls off the boat."

REPORT INDICATES POSSIBILITY OF ROCKFORD FLYERS' POSITION

By the Associated Press.
COPENHAGEN, Aug. 28.—Possible proof that the Rockford-to-Stockholm flyers, Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer reached the east coast of Greenland was contained in a communication issued by the Danish Government today stating that a noise like that of an airplane had been heard by the native colony at Akigsemish.

This village, says the announcement, is located at latitude 67.50 on the east coast of Greenland. The government had received no precise information as to time.

The Danish Governor of Greenland informed the government that he would make a personal investigation of these fresh reports. Search for the airman is proceeding all along the coast of Greenland and through the interior of the southern region. The Danish explorer, Knud Rasmussen, is assisting.

SACCO-VANZETTI

MEETING PERMITTED

Police Will Not Interfere, Chief
Gerk Says—Only Want Order Preserved.

Police will not interfere with a Sacco-Vanzetti memorial meeting set for 7:30 p. m. Friday at Druids' Hall, Ninth and Market streets, except to preserve order if the need arises, Chief Gerk said today.

The meeting, in commemoration of the first anniversary of the execution of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti originally was scheduled to be held last Sunday morning in a hall at 5200 Shaw avenue. John Braun, chairman of the International Labor Defense, one of the sponsors of the meeting, holds police responsible for preventing the meeting Sunday. Chief Gerk says the manager of the hall locked it when he learned the purpose of the meeting and that the police were present only to prevent disorder.

Police will be sent to the meeting Friday but only with instructions to maintain order, the Chief explained.

Sunday's meeting was called under joint auspices of the Labor Defense and the Anti-Fascist Alliance.
When police learned of the meeting, according to Chief Gerk, Capt.
White of the Mounted District investigated and talked to the hall manager, Louis C. Barbaglia, 1315
Cooper street, on Aug. 21. Barbaglia, according to Capt. White's report, stated the hall had been rented for a political meeting.

Three days later, Capt. White reported, handbills advertising the memorial meeting came into the hands of Barbaglia. When Capt.
White and his men went to the hall
Sunday morning, he related, they found the hall closed and were informed Barbaglia had decided not to rent the hall for a Sacco-Vanzetti meeting.

A number of men, including one who described himself as an organizer for the Workers' party, arrived at the hall for the meeting and were told by the police the meeting was off, according to the report.

In the meantime, police had interviewed Dr. Mario Dessales, Italian Consul. They reported he said he had no information pertaining to the meeting. Dr. Des-sales told a Post-Dispatch reporter he was not interested in the memorial meeting.

Braun charged that police questioned all who approached the hall Sunday, took names and cuffed and kicked several persons.
This was denied by Chief Gerk.

MATE OF STEAMER J. S. FOUND SHOT TO DEATH ON EXCURSION
Revolver Beside Body in Hull of Pleasure Boat Taken to Indicate Suicide.

When the excursion steamer J.
S. docked at the foot of Washington avenue last midnight, police were called by Capt. John Streckfus, who announced that Mate
James H. Beatty had been found shot to death in the hull of the boat.

Beatty, who was 23 years old, was last seen alive about 9:30 o'clock. When he was missed from the decks, a search was organized and his body was found shortly before the boat pulled in by a deck hand, Ray Marshall. A revolver with one discharged cartridge was beside the body. A bullet had entered the right side of the head and emerged at the left eye. The revolver's report had been drowned out by jazz music and dancing.

Police accepted the death as a case of suicide. Friends and relatives said Beatty had seemed worried over something. His mother,
Mrs. Nettie Beatty of Davenport,
Ia., and a friend, Mrs. Myrtle Chestnut, 2030 Ann avenue, were waiting on the levee for him.

'JELLYROLL' HOGAN CHARGES
BROGAN STOLE NOMINATION
Loser in Primary Race for State
Senator Writes Protest to Election Board.

"Jellyroll" Hogan, who was defeated by Joseph H. Brogan, incumbent, for the Democratic nomination for State Senator from the Thirty-third District in the recent primary by a vote of 3514 to 1476, has written the Election Board charging that "Brogan's gang stole the election from me and I am confident an investigation will bear out my accusation."

"You will see that in the Third Ward, precincts 10, 13 and 14, I got no votes," he continued. "Brogan's gang gave him 308 in these precincts. I have a number of friends in these precincts who have been afraid to say anything. I don't fear anybody so I am bringing this to your attention."

The Election Board has taken no action. Hogan can demand a grand jury inquiry or file a contest.

STEAMER SINKS TUG; ONE MAN MISSING, 10 SAVED

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The passenger steamer Chester W. Chapin of the New England Steamship Co., rammed and sank a tug today in Bell Gate off Dittmars Cove, As-toria. A fireman on the tug was reported missing. The other 10 of the tug's crew were rescued by a motor launch.
A 15-foot hole was torn above the waterline on the starboard side of the steamer, bound from Providence with 250 passengers. After the collision the steamer swung on to a reef, where she lay for nearly an hour before being pulled off by tugs. She reached her North River pier two hours later. The tug, in command of Capt. Charles Red-

APPEALS TO SOUTH TO DEFEAT "AL SMITH, BOWERY WET"

Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson Says Democratic "Bollers" Were Deserted by Party.

By the Associated Press. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 28.—"Al Smith, Bowery wet," and "Herbert Hoover, bone dry," were the subject of word pictures painted before a meeting of the Jefferson County Women's Christian Temperance Union today by Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson of Chevy Chase, Md., president of the National Women's Democratic Law Enforcement League.

Mrs. Nicholson said she spoke as one of the thousands of Democrats branded by party leaders as "bollers." "We did not bolt," she declared. "We were deserted and we mean to oppose the cause of our desertion. Tammany's candidate, Gov. Smith. We do not think he is a Democrat. He is a believer in privilege and a Bowery wet trying to pose as the Right Hon. Thomas Jefferson under the sublime patronage of 'Tammany the Corrupt.' We believe he is the incarnation of the forces of nullification and a betrayer of the eighteen's amendment and as Governor of New York has been the consistent servant of the liquor interests."

Mrs. Nicholson yesterday declared that Hoover would carry every Southern state with the possible exception of South Carolina and Louisiana.

DR. C. L. MOELLER ORDERED HELD FOR MURDER AT INQUEST

Charge in East St. Louis Based on Dying Woman's Allegation of Illegal Operation.

Dr. Charles L. Moeller, 66 years old, 11 1/2 North Main street, East St. Louis, was ordered held on a charge of murder following an inquest yesterday in the death of Miss Gladys Hodson, 21, 807 North Thirty-fourth street. She died St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis last Friday from effects of an illegal operation.

This is the third murder charge brought against the physician for alleged illegal practice. Although he did not testify at the inquest, Dr. Moeller recently told authorities that he has performed more than 200 illegal operations in the last three years. He said he took up the illegal practice when his sight failed several years ago. He has one glass eye and the other is defective.

The charge against Dr. Moeller was based on an ante-mortem statement of Miss Hodson, in which she named him. The operation was performed prior to admittance to the hospital on Aug. 6.

The other cases pending against Dr. Moeller resulted from the death Aug. 12 of Mrs. Lucie Baricevic, 19, of 821 Lynch avenue, and of a 16-year-old girl in 1926. Dr. Moeller was at liberty under $20,000 bond in the latter case when he was arrested for the death of Mrs. Baricevic.

FOUND WITH THROAT SLASHED

Laborer Had Attempted to Kill Self Twice, Says Wife.

William Whitson, 42 years old, a laborer, was found with his throat cut at his home, 4232 Norfolk avenue, yesterday afternoon. Whitson was found by neighbors after Aileen McDowell, 12 years old, 4232A Norfolk, discovered a bloodstained note on a rear porch signed by Whitson and directing his wife, Rhoda, could be found at 4135 Sarpy avenue. He is at City Hospital in a serious condition. Mrs. Whitson, who is separated from her husband, told police he had made two previous attempts to take his life.

HELEN WILLS HAS NOT LOST SET IN WINNING THREE NET TITLES

SPENCER WINS $45,000 TROT; GUY ABBE NEXT

By the Associated Press.
ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28.—Helen Wills has made two national tennis championships grow where but one grew before. Her straight-set victory over Ben Jacobs of Santa Barbara, Cal., yesterday, 6-2, 6-1, in the defense of her national championship was surprising only because of its overwhelming one-sidedness. Her victory in the doubles championship, paired with her husband, H. Hutchins Wightman, was more unexpected. Not one of the three years Miss Wills has been able to carry off both titles.

While Helen of Berkeley has never performed the unprecedented feat of winning the championships of France, England and the United States in one season without losing a set, she has never gained such accolade as a doubles player. Yet, the 6-2, 6-1 victory which she and Mrs. Wightman won in the doubles championship, paired with her victory over Ben Jacobs of Santa Barbara, Cal., yesterday, 6-2, 6-1, in the defense of her national championship was surprising only because of its overwhelming one-sidedness. Her victory in the doubles championship, paired with her husband, H. Hutchins Wightman, was more unexpected. Not one of the three years Miss Wills has been able to carry off both titles.

EARNINGS OF 32 RAILROADS SHOW GAIN OF 12.7 PCT.

Missouri Pacific, Frisco and M.K.T. Among Southwestern Carriers Having Increases in July.

The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The first 32 railroads to report July earnings had net operating income aggregating $50,252,000 compared with $44,591,000 in July of last year, an increase of 12.7 per cent. Gross revenues amounted to $262,184,000, against $260,181,000 last year, an increase of 1.1 per cent.

The reports generally compared favorably with last year, although the majority of the totals for the seven-month period were less satisfactory, reflecting the low returns in the early months of this year.

The Western and Southwestern roads, notably the Grangers, showed in the most satisfactory figures. The heavy movement of winter wheat particularly favored the Atchafalaya, the Texas & Pacific.

the Frisco and the Rock Island. Among the Eastern carriers, the Baltimore & Ohio was able to show some improvement through curtailing expenses. The Southern roads showed less favorable returns, although the Southern Railway System showed a slight gain in net, while gross income was less.

Texas & Pacific returned one of the best reports, with net of $872,743 against $830,348 last year. For the seven-month period the total net was $5,671,657 against $2,562,972.

The Rock Island net for July was $2,553,328 against $1,838,010, and for the seven months, $11,660,993 against $10,455,903.

The Missouri-Kansas-Texas July net was $1,192,183 against $878,511, and for the seven months, $6,450,000 this year, against $6,628,120 last.

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific continued its marked improvement over last year with net of $1,480,641 for the month, against a deficit of $82,114 last year. Total net for the first seven months is $13,250,817, against $3,725,988 last year.

The Missouri Pacific July net was $1,761,659, against $1,545,335 and for the seven months, $10,364,215, against $7,416,842.

The Big Four lines July net dropped to $868,808 from $1,113,254, and for the seven months, to $7,183,386, from $8,322,025 last year.

The Wabash's net for the month was $706,977, compared to $498,118 last year, and for the seven months, $5,340,808, against $4,582,030 last year.

The Seaboard Airline's net operating income for the month was $619,521, a decrease from $746,486 last year, and for the seven months, $6,100,429, falling from $6,588,876 in that period of last year.

Mo. Pac. Broke All July Operating Records.

All existing July operating revenue records in the history of the Missouri Pacific Railroad have been broken this year, as shown in a statement issued today by President Baldwin, indicating that a new high mark in total revenues probably will be established this year.

Total operating revenues on the Missouri Pacific Railroad for July were $11,133,333, as against $10,398,040 for the same month of 1927. For the first seven months of 1928, total operating revenues on the Missouri Pacific Railroad were $72,298,533, as against $70,541,945 for the same period of 1927.

Baldwin also reports satisfactory conditions for the Gulf Coast lines, International-Great Northern and the San Antonio, Uvalde & Gulf.

C. M. HOWELL CHOSEN DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMAN

Senator Reed's Law Partner Selected by State Candidates at Conference.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 28.—Charles M. Howell of Kansas City last night was chosen by Democratic State candidates as chairman of the party Executive Committee; with recommendations that he be elected chairman of the State Democratic Committee when it meets Sept. 11. Howell is the law partner of Senator James A. Reed. Announcement of the decision of the conference was made to newspaper men by Charles M. Hay, Democratic candidate for United States Senator, speaking in the presence of all the other Democratic candidates except State Senator Francis M. Wilson, candidate for Governor, who had left the conference earlier.

Late yesterday afternoon, Mr. Wilson issued this statement: "C. C. Leedy Jr., who managed my primary campaign, and whose name I intend suggesting to the Democratic State Committee at its September meeting as my choice for its chairman, has requested, in the interest of party harmony, that I no longer consider him for the position."

"In view of the fine service he has rendered me, it is with great reluctance that I accede to his request, and commend him for his party loyalty."

Samuel Fordyce of St. Louis is the retiring State chairman. He declined to be a candidate to succeed himself.

Counsel for Wilson Questions Accounting for Check to Italian for "Disseminating Information."

GETS PERMISSION TO CALL EXPERTS

Head of Pittsburg City Council Denies That 5640 Messengers Were Hired for Fraud.

By the Associated Press. PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 28.—Investigation of a receipt for $1000, supposed to have been written Nov. 22, 1926, was demanded of the United States Senate today by counsel for William B. Wilson, Democrat, at the Senate hearing of Wilson's charges of irregularities in the election to the Senate of William S. Vare, his Republican opponent.

Roland B. Mahoney, chief counsel for Wilson, charged that the receipt, given for money which witnesses testified was to be used for "dissemination of information," among Italian voters, bore evidence of having been written more recently than the date indicated.

Mahoney asked that the Senate subcommittee on privileges and elections have it examined by experts to determine the date of its origin.

Replying to Mahoney's request, Senator Charles K. Waterman (Rep., Colorado), who is conducting the inquiry, said that Mahoney could have it examined by experts on behalf of Wilson and could bring his experts on the stand to testify.

Mahoney's expression of doubt as to whether the receipt was genuine came during the examination of Lawrence Albino, chairman of the Western Pennsylvania Italian Voters League, S. J. Topley, treasurer of the Country Republican Committee in 1926, testified yesterday that $1000 was paid to Albino for "dissemination of information" on Nov. 22, 1926.

No Accounting for Money. Albino testified today that the money was not paid directly to him. A check was made out to him, he said, and turned over to Mrs. D. G. Trill, of a mailing business in Erie, Pa., which was a literature translated into Italian and distributed.

Albino said the check was brought to him by Miss Trill, that he indorsed it over to her, and received a receipt. The receipt was tendered in evidence and it was then that Mahoney demanded investigation of it. Charles Pritchard, attorney for counsel for Vare challenged Mahoney to have experts examine it. Albino testified that no accounting for the money was made to him by Miss Trill.

Absolute denial that there was fraud in connection with the 1926 senatorial election was made yesterday by James F. Malone, president of the Pittsburg City Council, and chairman of the Republican County Campaign Committee in 1926.

Asked by Senator Waterman whether there was any "ulterior motive" in the hiring of 5640 "messengers" in the 1926 election, Malone said in a calm voice "absolutely not." He amplified his answer by declaring that to his knowledge, there was no fraud of any kind in connection with the balloting.

Malone's denial came after lengthy questioning by Wilson's counsel concerning the methods of employing "messengers" and "walkers."

Attorney Mahoney, pointing out that records showed 5640 "messengers" had been hired, said that assuming each "messenger" had five dependents, this would assure at least 28,200 votes for the Republicans.

At this point Waterman intervened and asked the witness directly whether the "messengers" were hired with the ulterior motive of controlling their votes and the votes of their dependents. Malone's denial was positive.

ARGENTINE WHEAT INQUIRY Commission to Investigate Abnormal Price Drop. By the Associated Press. BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 28.—The Grain Exchange has appointed a commission to investigate the abnormal drop in the price of wheat. Members of the exchange today refused to express any opinion before the conclusion of the inquiry. The opinion is generally expressed, however, that the decrease has been due to the speculations of powerful concerns, coupled with the spread of exaggerated reports regarding foreign crops. Panicky conditions have lately been produced among wheat raisers by crops and surpluses available for export to Argentina. This has resulted in efforts on their part to sell at any price.

STATE 'HOME RULE' IN DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN

Assurance From Leaders That There Will Be No Dictation From Headquarters.

Democratic state chairmen, national committeemen and committeewomen, officers of senatorial and congressional committees, candidates and other party leaders of the eight states of this district, gathered at Hotel Jefferson today, waiting their turn to sit for 45 minutes in state conferences with Chairman Raskob and the other Democratic national leaders.

It was understood that the national leaders would discuss the state problems and assure the state party leaders that the state would have strictly "home rule" campaigns, with no dictation from national headquarters. The state organizations, it was announced, would not be urged to join in the national organization's campaign for modification of the Volstead law as outlined in Gov. Smith's acceptance speech.

Illinois "Fighting Ground." Illinois, claimed by Chairman Raskob as "fighting ground," sent delegates under Bruce A. Campbell, regional vice chairman, and Thomas F. Donovan, chairman of the State Committee. Both leaders, however, declared they were confident that Illinois would go over to the Smith side.

"In the big cities and industrial centers there is a marked pro-Smith sentiment while the farm sections are displaying an anti-Hoover sentiment," Donovan declared. "We expect to carry Chicago by a margin of more than 125,000, with strong pluralities in other industrial sections, sufficient to overwhelm any Republican lead which might show in the rural sections."

"I recently made a tour of the State in which I found that the farmers were eminently dissatisfied with the result of Coolidge's farm relief promises and were strongly opposed to Hoover for his stand on that question."

Members of Donovan's party are W. G. Bied, president of the Chicago & Alton Railroad and financial director of the national campaign committee for Illinois; Maria J. O'Brien, Cook County chairman; Timothy J. Crowe, president of the Chicago Sanitary District; Mrs. George E. Brennan, regional vice chairman; Mrs. Julia E. Johnson, women's chairman for Illinois; and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, member of the national committee.

H. H. Harper, chairman of the Nebraska Committee of Nebraska, declared his state would go to Smith in November. "We are in good shape out there," he declared. "The liquor issue cuts little figure. We are interested in farm relief and the blame for failure of the Government to bring relief is laid squarely at the door of the Republican administration."

C. F. Connelly, treasurer of the Senatorial Committee, and Arthur P. Mullin, National Committeeman, of Omaha, also represent Nebraska. One of the largest delegations is from Tennessee, headed by United States Senator Lawrence D. Tyson and Representative Joseph Byrnes of Nashville. Benton McMillan, Tennessee National Committeeman, and Mrs. Lynn Childress, National Committeewoman, are also in this party.

"Although there has been considerable reaction throughout Tennessee against Gov. Smith's demand for modification of the prohibition," Senator Tyson said, "there has been nothing to warrant the Republican claim that Tennessee is doubtful territory. Prohibition, however, will be the predominating issue in our state."

Speaking for Oklahoma, George Key, state chairman, declared: "We anticipate some defections among the more extreme drys, but we expect to more than make it up from the farm vote. The Oklahoma farmers have waited through two terms for farm relief from Hoover's party and they are ready to place their confidence in Smith."

Much Work in Oklahoma. Scott Ferris of Oklahoma, vice chairman of the regional division, National Committeeman and former Congressman, declared the nomination of Senator Curtis of Kansas, a quarterbreed, Kaw Indian, for the vice presidency by the Republicans had made a strong appeal to the 100,000 Indian voters of Oklahoma.

The Kentucky delegation is headed by Fred M. Wilson, regional vice chairman; J. E. Robinson, National Committeeman, and Mrs. C. C. Mayo, National Committeewoman; the Kansas delegation by Dudley Doolittle, National Committeeman, and Mrs. Florence G. Farley, National Committeewoman; and the Iowa delegation by J. J. Hughes, regional vice chairman, Dr. J. W. Reynolds, National Committeeman; Mrs. June Pickel, regional vice chairman, and Mrs. Flora Etter, National Committeewoman.

The Missouri committee consists of Frederick D. Gardner, St. Louis, regional vice chairman; W. T. Kemper, Kansas City, National Committeeman; James P. Aylward, Kansas City, Senatorial Committeeman; Ralph Loefer, Charleston, Congressional Committeeman; Samuel W. Fordyce, St. Louis, chairman of the State committee; Frank C. Niles, Kansas City, National finance director, and Kenneth Teasdale, of the State advisory committee. Heading the Missouri women's committee are Mrs. W. Henderson, La Platte, regional vice chairman; Mrs. Charles B. Faris, St. Louis, National Committeewoman, and Mrs. Dora Hall Stagner, St. Joseph, vice chairman of the State committee.

SELFISH AND WILLFUL WAR
ROBBED OF ITS LEGITIMACY
BY PACT, BRIAND DECLARESTreaty Signed by 15 Nations in Paris Truly
Devoted to Establishment of Peace,
He Says.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 28.—Foreign Minister Briand's address to the plenipotentiaries before the signing yesterday of the Kellogg-Briand renunciation of war pact follows:

"Gentlemen, I am fully conscious that silence would best befit such a solemn occasion. What I should like without any further words would be to let each of you simply rise from his seat to go and affix his signature in the name of his own country to the greatest collective deed born of peace, but I should be failing in my duty to my country if I did not tell you how deeply it feels the honor of welcoming the first signatories of a general pact for the renunciation of war."

"If this honor has been left to France as acknowledgement of the moral standing she enjoys thanks to her constant effort in the cause of peace, I gladly accept such tribute on behalf of the Government of the French Republic and I express the gratification of the whole people, happy that the inmost recesses of their national psychology should at last be understood by the world."

"While extending to you gentlemen a cordial welcome, let me rejoice at seeing gathered here, save those who were unavoidably prevented from coming by their State of health or by other duties, all the statesmen who, in their capacity as Ministers of Foreign Affairs, have taken a personal share in the conception, preparation and drafting of the new pact."

"We owe special thanks to those who have undergone the fatigue of a long journey in order to be present at this manifestation."

High Tribute to Kellogg.

"I have no doubt that you are all ready to join with me in the same cordial impulse to one of our colleagues who did not hesitate to come himself and assert, with the full moral authority attached to his name and the great country which he represents, the affirmation of his steady faith in the importance and scope of the deed which we are about to sign."

"Seated today among us in this same hall where his illustrious predecessor, President Wilson, associated already with works of peace so high a consciousness of the role of his country, the Hon. Mr. Kellogg is able to measure with just pride all the road covered in so short a time since the epoch when we examined, both of us, the possibility of realization of this vast diplomatic enterprise."

"None is better qualified to take part in the negotiations today brought to a happy ending, a preponderant part of which was his and which will always stand to his honor in the minds of men. His optimism and his tenacity have overcome human skepticism; his loyalty and his good faith, the good will he brought to dissipate by clear and precise explanations the legitimate misgivings, have won him the confidence of all his collaborators; his clear-sightedness has shown him what one can expect from governments inspired by the deep yearnings of nations."

"What greater lesson can be offered the world than the spectacle of a reunion called for the signature of a pact against war, Germany of her own free will and on an even footing takes her place among the other signatories, her former adversaries."

Pays Homage to Stresemann.

"The occasion is all the more striking when it is given to a representative of France to receive for the first time since more than a century German Foreign Minister on French soil and give him the same welcome as all his foreign colleagues. I would add, gentlemen, when this representative of Germany is named Stresemann, one can believe me particularly happy to render homage to the highness of mind and to the courage of this eminent man of state who, during more than three years, has not hesitated to assume full responsibility in the work of European co-operation for the maintenance of peace."

"Since I have gone so far as to mention names, you will not take it amiss—and certainly Lord Cusendun will approve me—if I personally evoke amongst us with brotherly feeling the name of Sir Austen Chamberlain. Allow me to address to him a general pact against war and full return to health. When I think of the unwearied devotion that the cause of peace has always fostered in his noble soul, I cannot help imagining the joy which so determined an enemy of war would have felt at the sight of the moral force amongst which is that of public opinion. In effect, a State which would act so as to incur the reproach of all its partners would run the positive risk of seeing all of them gradually and freely gather against it with redoubtable consistency, which would not be long to issue. And where is the country, signatory to this pact, whose leaders would not ing in fact to obtain eventually the same result as the new pact, but apart from the fact that the United States had no share in it, the formula and methods of the League could not be the same as those to which it has been possible for us to have recourse for such a general and absolute agreement as the pact provides. The League of Nations is a vast political undertaking of insurance against war and a powerful institution of organized peace where there is room to welcome all fresh contributions to the common work, cannot but rejoice at the signing of an international contract whereby she is to benefit.

"Far from being inconsistent with any of her obligations, this new act, on the contrary, offers her a kind of general reinsurance. Thus those of her members who will soon be able to ask the League to register today's contract will rightly feel that they are bringing her a precious token of their attachment and loyalty."

Essential Feature of Pact.

"It may now be appropriate to explain what is finally the essential feature of this pact, against war. It is this: 'For the first time in the fact of the whole world through a solemn covenant involving the honor of great nations, which all have behind them a heavy past, of political conflict, war is renounced unreservedly as an instrument of National policy, that is to say in its most specific and dreaded form—selfish and regular consideration of force as of divine right and having remained in international ethics is an attribute of sovereignty, that form of war becomes at last radically devoid of what constituted its most serious danger—its legitimacy.'"

"Henceforth, branded with illegality, it is by mutual accord truly and regularly outlawed, so that a culprit would incur the unconditional condemnation and probably the enmity of all its co-signatories. It is a direct blow to the institution of war, even to its very vitality. It is no longer a question of a defensive organization against this scourge, but of attacking the evil at the root itself. Thus shall war as a means of arbitrary and selfish action no longer be deemed lawful. This new threat shall no longer hang over the economic, political and social life of peoples. Thus shall the smaller nations henceforth enjoy real independence in international discussions. Freed from the old bondage, the nations will gradually forsake the habit of associating the idea of National prestige and National interest with the idea of force. And this single psychological fact will not be the least important factor in the evolution that is needed to lead to the regular stabilization of peace."

"For the first time, on general plans accessible to all nations in the universe, a congress of peace does something else than settle politically the immediate conditions of a particular peace such as are imposed by the results of war. For the first time, on a comprehensive and absolute scale, a treaty is truly devoted to the very establishment of peace, initiating a new law and freed from all political contingencies. Such a treaty is a beginning and not an end unto itself."

"Nor have we met to liquidate a war. The pact of Paris, born of peace and drawn from a free judicial notion, can and must be a regular treaty of concord. That is no doubt, why Mr. Kellogg when he insisted on leaving to the French Government the privilege of receiving you in Paris, was so kind as to tell the French Ambassador that it seemed to him quite fitting that the neighborhood of the 'Place de la Concorde' should be chosen for signing the pact."

"The treaties of Locarno, after the Dawes plan, and already borne witness to this new spirit that now finds its full vent. All their signatories were quite familiar with the idea of the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy, as I had the occasion of saying in my message to the American people on the sixth of April, 1927. But those practical agreements, calculated to create a political guarantee of peace in a definite section of Europe, could not, because of their very nature, assume that universal character from which the moral force amongst which is that of public opinion. In effect, a State which would act so as to incur the reproach of all its partners would run the positive risk of seeing all of them gradually and freely gather against it with redoubtable consistency, which would not be long to issue. And where is the country, signatory to this pact, whose leaders would not

In addition to West's personal holdings in the Insull companies, his wife and mother also have been stockholders for a number of years. These interests were admitted by him in his testimony July 27, 1926, before the Reed Campaign Expenditures Committee during its inquiry into Insull's contributions to the campaign of Frank L. Smith as a candidate for the Senate from the State of Illinois.

West testified on that occasion: "In 1927 I became one of the attorneys of the Commonwealth Edison Co., trying law suits. I began investing with Mr. Insull in what was then the Edison Co., then in his Middle West Utilities Co., which he later organized, and also in his Public Service Co., and I have had investments in these companies since, as has my wife and as has my mother. We have increased our holdings along in increases of stock, and we now have very substantial holdings in these three companies. Glassie of the Federal Tariff Commission, it was held that ownership by his wife of a small block of stock in a sugar company was sufficient to bar him from participation in the consideration of the entire sugar schedule. Efforts are now being made to establish definitely whether West still retains stock interest in the Middle West Utilities Co. and other Insull corporations. It is said that evidence is available to show that these securities were listed in his name quite recently and it is believed that he has not disposed of them, unless he has done so since receiving his appointment.

Several legal questions must also be cleared up before any definite action can be taken in what it is believed would be the first proceeding against a Cabinet officer under this statute. A thorough study of the entire situation is now being made by one of the leading attorneys of Washington and it is expected that his preliminary report will be available within a few days.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Legal action may be taken in the interest of the public to prevent Roy O. West, recently appointed Secretary of the Interior by President Coolidge, from sitting as a member of the Federal Power Commission in alleged violation of a Federal statute prohibiting an official from acting in cases in which he has a pecuniary interest, it was learned today.

West, as a large stockholder in the Middle West Utilities Co., one of the Insull corporations, is alleged to have a substantial personal interest in nine of the applications for waterpower leases now pending before the Federal Power Commission. These nine projects are in six States—Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Wisconsin. One of these applications, covering the great Cumberland Falls of Kentucky, is being hotly contested.

Under the statute creating the Federal Power Commission, the Secretary of the Interior automatically becomes a member of the Commission. As such, it is his duty to approve or disapprove all applications for leases of power on the navigable waters and on the public lands and reservations of the United States. He also has a voice in determining the compensation to be paid to the Government for such leases and under usual conditions is charged with the duty of regulating rates to be charged for the power which may be generated. The leases are, in effect, contracts between the United States and the corporation which receives the license.

Provisions of Criminal Code.
The question is, therefore, raised whether West can legally serve as Secretary of the Interior and ex-officio member of the Federal Power Commission without violating that section of the Criminal Code which reads:

"That no member or agent of any firm or person directly or indirectly interested in the pecuniary profits of contracts of a corporation, joint stock company or association or firm shall be employed or shall act as an officer or agent of the United States for the transaction of business with such corporation, joint stock company, association or firm."

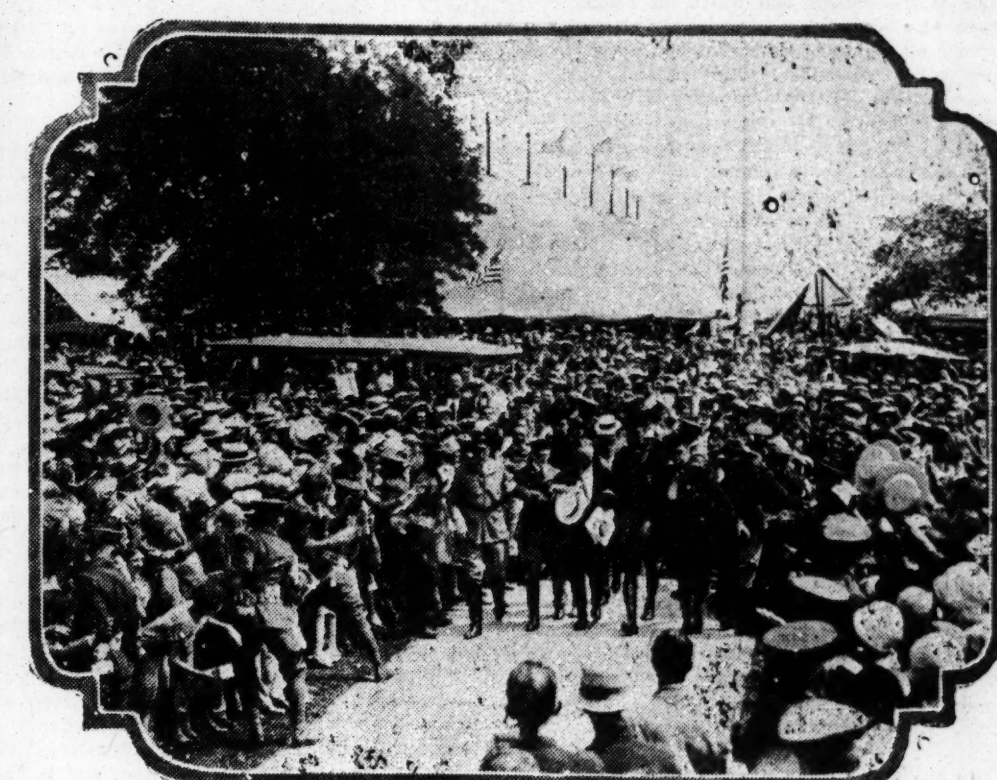

The nine applications filed by subsidiaries of the Middle West Utilities Co. which Secretary West has admitted interest as a substantial stockholder, are: 498—Public Service Co. of Oklahoma, Grand River, Ok. 539—Kentucky Hydro-Electric Co., Kentucky River, Ky. 540—Kentucky Hydro-Electric Co., Grand River, Ok. 563—Interstate Public Service Co., St. Joseph River, Ind. 566—Kentucky Hydro-Electric Co., Kentucky River, Ky. 700—Kentucky Hydro-Electric Co., Cumberland River, Ky. 710—Wisconsin Power and Light Co., Wolf River, Wis. 729—Kentucky Hydro-Electric Co., Cumberland River, Tenn.-Ky. 904—Kentucky Utilities Co., Kentucky River, Ky.

In addition to West's personal holdings in the Insull companies, his wife and mother also have been stockholders for a number of years. These interests were admitted by him in his testimony July 27, 1926, before the Reed Campaign Expenditures Committee during its inquiry into Insull's contributions to the campaign of Frank L. ## Uproarious Reception to Gov. Smith in New Jersey

THE Democratic Presidential nominee, straw hat in hand and flanked by a husky bodyguard, had literally to push his way through the throng gathered to cheer him at Seagriff, N. J.

LAMMOT DU PONT SAYS
HE'LL VOTE FOR HOOVERBrother of Pierre S., Who Is for Smith, Urges Support of G. O. P.

By the Associated Press.

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 28.—Within a few weeks after his brother, Pierre S. du Pont, announced that he would support Gov. Smith, Democratic nominee for the presidency, Lammot du Pont announced in a statement made public today that he would vote for Herbert Hoover, the Republican candidate.

Lammot du Pont is president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., and his brother, who was president during the war, is chairman of the board. They are cousins of Senator Coleman du Pont, Republican of Delaware.

Lammot du Pont appeals to business men to stand by the Republican party "because under Republican government for the last eight years we have had prosperity and under Democratic administrations we have had less prosperity and usually hard times."

He differs with Hoover on the liquor issue, but declares the prohibition question is by no means the paramount one of the campaign, nor that other questions out of deference to it should be left to settle themselves.

"Both platforms are silent as to repeal or modification of the prohibition laws," continues the statement. "We know that at the Democratic convention there was a violent fight over a wet plank and the drys won out. Both parties stand in support of the existing law."

"There is not much satisfaction in the consideration of Gov. Smith's program of local option as a solution of the prohibition problem. One of the most obvious evils of prohibition is smuggling and bootlegging, with the attendant disrespect for the prohibition and other laws."

"It is my opinion that Mr. Hoover by his stand against repeal cannot stop the growth of opinion against prohibition, nor can Gov. Smith, by recommending its modification, carry sufficient votes to repeal the eighteenth amendment."

"A definite plan for control of the liquor traffic must be worked out and sold to the public. In that way only can we secure the necessary heavy majority to repeal the eighteenth amendment. This can be accomplished more rapidly under Republican prosperity than Democratic depression."

WON'T BOLT, DANIELS
WRITES DR. STRATONBest to Remain Loyal and Elect Dry Democratic Congressmen, He States.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 28.—The Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton's hope that Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, will bolt to the Republican party because of Gov. Smith's stand on prohibition is not going to be fulfilled. In a letter to the pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, New York, Daniels makes that clear.

Daniels has written to Dr. Straton as follows:

"I was a delegate to the convention that nominated Gov. Smith and I was against his nomination because I feared he would take the position that he has taken in his speech of acceptance, though I never dreamed he would go so far. In the South we must either go Republican or exhaust our energies to elect dry Democrats to Congress who will vote against any suggestion that either Smith or Hoover would make for modification of the amendment or the repealing of the temperance laws and the Constitution."

"In this great distress I have come to believe that I can serve the cause of prohibition and temperance better by remaining in my party than by supporting Mr. Hoover, who sat in the Cabinet with Harding with all the corruption, and with Coolidge with all the favoritism—the two administrations, which by flagrant failure to enforce the law or to give it legal and moral support, have done more to harm prohibition than its open foes. I know you will disagree with me and I shall not quarrel with you."

"We have peculiar conditions in the South which compel us to look into all these matters from a standpoint not altogether like that which exists in other parts of the country. If we break our solidarity in the South we are in danger of opening a Pandora's Box of evils. We are going to keep the Democratic party in the South dry and make it an effective agency to prevent the repeal of prohibition."

Mexican Catholics demand only the same religious liberty that exists in the United States, he explained. He expressed the belief that the religious controversy cannot be settled unless the requirements that the priests register with Government authorities are eliminated.

He reiterated his belief that Mother Superior Concepcion Acosta de la Lata, who is under arrest charged with complicity in the assassination of Obregon, is "hysterical" and has an abnormal brain. Indictments have been returned against Mother Concepcion, Joseph Leon and Toral Obregon's assassin, and 14 other persons, charging them with responsibility for the assassination and accusing them of having conspired against life and property. Those indicted include nine women.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Flowing robes have yielded to frock coats and turbans to fedoras in Afghanistan, according to a dispatch from Allahabad, India. The king is inducing political leaders to accept European dress.

At the triennial session of Parliament the headmen, conforming to the royal wish, appeared in frock coats, felt hats and trousers, all of a somber hue instead of in the picturesque costume of the tribesmen. Many bearded parliamentarians also sacrificed their facial adornments, long honored by usage, in deference to the King's reform ideas.

SMITH DELIVERS
UNSLATED SPEECH

Him on Return From Seaside to New York.SPEAKING PROGRAM
STILL UNSETTLEDDemocratic Nominee's Itinerary to Be Discussed—
Leaves Tomorrow for Syracuse Fair.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—With a brief speech of thanks to the people of New Jersey, who hailed him uproariously during his four-day visit at Spring Lake, N. J., Gov. Smith has delivered the first address in his fight for the presidency since he was formally proclaimed the Democratic standard bearer.

"I have no idea in the world now where I will go or how many speeches I will make," Gov. Smith today told newspaper men in his suite at Hotel Biltmore, in discussing plans for his campaign speaking tour. "I won't have any plans at all until after Labor day," he added.

The Democratic presidential nominee took to the golf links for a round of nine holes in the afternoon. He will leave tomorrow morning for Syracuse to attend the New York State fair Thursday and will return to Albany that night if possible.

Asked how he felt after his strenuous motor trip from Spring Lake, N. J., yesterday, the nominee said he was all right, but it was kind of nerve wracking.

Chief Concern for Children.
His chief concern was for the great number of children in the crowds that lined the roads and streets on his route up the coast. The Governor addressed several telegrams of condolence today, including one to Mrs. James J. Walker, wife of the Mayor of New York, over the death of her mother at Clinton, Ia., and another to George M. Cohan, another famous, on the death of his mother.

Smith's first speech, made shortly before midnight from a small platform on the City Hall steps in Newark, surrounded by a howling torch-bearing crowd that flooded into the streets, surprised nearly everyone in his party, as he passed the word that he intended to make no open air speeches unless forced to do so.

Tumultuous Reception.
This evidently was a case where he was forced, for the throngs that greeted him during the late afternoon and night as he made his way by automobile up to New York from Spring Lake gave him an ovation as tumultuous as that of last Friday, when he was en route to the Democratic rally at Sea Girt.

With difficulty the nominee elbowed his way through the crowd to express his sorrow at having to leave New Jersey and declare he had never seen a greater display of enthusiasm.

"I left New York City at 4 p. m. Friday," he began. "I've never thought New Jersey had so great a population. At Sea Girt, the whole populace of the eastern part of the United States seemed to be assembled."

"I will be sorry to leave New Jersey. I have never seen so much devotion. I may say affection, as the people of New Jersey have shown me. I have been called 'Al' more often during the four days I spent here than I have in my whole official life in New York."

Triumphant Trip by Auto.
Just before leaving the stand to fight his way back to his car, Smith was greeted by another tremendous shout, led by Charles F. Gillian, a Newark City Commissioner, who had introduced him, proposing "three cheers for the next President of the United States."

Coming slowly on through Jersey City, the Democratic nominee got a touch of local enthusiasm when he reached the New York end of the vehicular tunnel.

"Hurrah for Al!" shouted several hundred residents of the old Fifth Ward, who welcomed him back to his native city.

Turning to the nine New Jersey policemen who accompanied his party from Spring Lake, the Governor voiced his thanks, to which they joined in reply:

"Pleased to have met you, Mr. President."

New York police then took over the escort job to the Hotel Biltmore.

As a result of the big send-off, Gov. Smith today was more associated than ever that New Jersey was safe for him in November. Senator Edwards, Gov. Moore and William L. Dill, Democratic candidate for Governor, echoed the Governor's views and predicted their party would carry New Jersey by 200,000.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Are St. Louisans Temperamental?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SINCE first knowing St. Louis, there has always been a question I have wanted to ask, or place before St. Louis people for their consideration: Have St. Louis people the most unnatural, peculiar and different temperament of any other people in the world?

To illustrate: Recently returning to St. Louis, after several years' absence, I find that actual antipathy really exists between people who drive automobiles and people who walk—something which the rest of the world imagined existed only in movie comedies and joke books.

People who drive automobiles actually think that people who walk have not the same rights and privileges to the use of the city streets that drivers have. From experience and observation, it actually looks as though the pedestrian who is caught halfway across the street, at Grand and Washington boulevards, when the lights start to change, is likely to be killed before he can reach the sidewalk.

One morning, before the traffic officer arrived, I stood at Twelfth and Olive, and out of 200 to 300 cars which passed, only two actually stopped for the Twelfth street stop sign.

Other circumstances for consideration are the "no car stop" signs hanging over the car tracks, which serve only to confuse strangers, causing them to think such corners are car stops, before they take time to read the signs; the cranky "no left turn" signs at practically every corner where there are traffic signals. In Chicago, where traffic is three times as heavy, I only know of one or two of these outside the Loop; last but not least, the fact that it appears that St. Louis people have a more nervous, irritable or excitable temperament than the people of any other city.

C. C. MILLS.

An Iowa Republican Who Is for Smith.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AM a member of the M. E. church and in good standing. I have been a faithful worker for the G. O. P. from Blaine to Coolidge, but left the party when Coolidge went back on the farmer. I have been a farmer, teacher and grain dealer for 50 years, so I know something of the condition of the country and the farmer.

I would rather trust Gov. Smith with the issue of prohibition than to let it continue under the damnable conditions of this Coolidge, Mellon and Hoover rule. I will cast my vote for Alfred E. Smith for President, and I believe he will be the next President of the United States.

Gov. John Hammill says Hoover will win Iowa by 250,000. But listen! Gov. Smith will win Iowa by 150,000.

Muny Opera Passes.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WELL, at last someone has opened an argument which should have been started some ten years ago. I understand the Board of Aldermen, as well as other higher city officials, receive two passes at $1.50 each for our municipal opera each and every week. The municipal opera is a civic affair, and in my estimation those St. Louisans who are getting their livelihood by being city employees—and who, in some cases, have gainful outside occupations—should really be the people to dip deep into their pockets each week and pay for their seats, so that our city enterprises are a success. Why should they, when they are earning a city salary, get free admission while another person who works hard to make a livelihood at only one job should pay for the pleasure of our Board of Aldermen and city hall higher-ups? If the muny opera has a deficit this year, let's see which one of these pass holders will be the first one to pay for the seats he has used this season. If each and every one of the above mentioned would come forward, no doubt we would go over with a profit. A MUNY OPERA PATRON.

For Yellow Busses on Olive.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

REGARDING the skip-stop system on the Olive street line, it appears to me that while it is right that passengers ought to be carried downtown as quickly as possible, the people who have business interests, or are employed along Olive street between Grand and Twelfth, have some rights which in fairness ought to be respected. Property owners along Olive street, as you know, have been heavily assessed on account of the benefits which they were supposed to get on account of the widening of Olive street and, as you also know, the street was torn up for a long time and the people there had to suffer on account of this. We also would like to see Olive street develop into a fine business street.

What, then, is to be done? Why not have the Public Service Co. run the yellow busses on the widened part of Olive street and then these busses could stop on any corner? The street cars on Olive street could then have even more skip stops—let us say, they could stop on Grand, Jefferson, Eighteenth and Twelfth street. Of course, transfers ought then be given from cars to busses.

The Kellogg-Briand Treaty

Fifteen nations, among them the most powerful in the world, participated through their representatives yesterday in the colorful ceremony of signing the Kellogg-Briand treaty outlawing war as an instrument of national policy.

An immensely impressive occasion, having its locale in the historic hall where the League of Nations also was born, the signing of this agreement among all the great powers, except Russia, to abandon war as a national policy, presents one of the most puzzling political phenomena in history.

It is something for which Senator Borah, one of the most rabid of those bitter-enders who successfully resisted the effort to commit the United States to an international concert making peace compulsory, has persistently clamored as the earth's most sorely-needed panacea. A great many people believe in it. Some of the most influential journals in the world accept it as the beginning of a new era. Yet it is nothing but the bare word of these nations to abandon war. It has been the experience of the world that the moment the interest of any signatory is imperiled this solemn pact will become "a scrap of paper." Who has forgotten Germany's "rape of Belgium"? Nobody believes the United States is going to brook interference with her in the Caribbean, while Britain has specifically said that the treaty does not relate "to certain regions of which the welfare and integrity constitute a special and vital interest for our peace and safety." She also refuses to renounce war as an instrument of policy when it might seem necessary with any power that breaks the Kellogg-Briand treaty, and her third reservation is that "Britain will feel free to employ war as an instrument of policy in case of self defense." Consequently a great many people, as well as notable journals, refuse to take the treaty seriously.

In the March Review of Reviews, Frank H. Simonds, eminent critic of European affairs, made a piercing analysis of Mr. Kellogg's proposal to outlaw war. Originally, Briand had proposed a treaty outlawing war between France and the United States. "Materially, practically," said Simonds, "the gesture amounted to nothing; politically, sentimentally, it might prove profitable. It was, in sum, nothing more nor less than an effort on the part of the Frenchman to advance the cause of Franco-American friendship by a French tribute to an American conception"—namely, that war between the two countries is unthinkable.

When Mr. Kellogg countered with a proposal to expand the Franco-American pact into one in which all the great powers were to join, the situation was entirely changed. "For in Europe, by virtue of the League of Nations covenant and all the subsidiary agreements made later between special powers war is the basis of peace." It is one of the fundamental obligations of League members to go to war against any nation which deliberately and aggressively disturbs the peace. Great Britain, moreover, is further bound under the Locarno pacts "to fight either France or Germany, if either disturbs the status quo on the Rhine by aggression. So is Italy." In Eastern Europe, France has bound itself to go to war to defend Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Mr. Simonds could not see how it was possible for European nations, bound as they were by solemn obligations to make war in the interest of peace, to agree to the Kellogg suggestion. He said:

What the Briand-Kellogg discussions did make clear was that, for a future which cannot be measured, any such general proposition as outlawing war has as little chance of obtaining serious European consideration as would the proposal in the United States to abolish cancer by Act of Congress.

No doubt Mr. Simonds is not the least astonished person among those who witnessed in Paris yesterday the signing of the multilateral treaty. Looking at European affairs with the eyes of a realist, he was unable to visualize the contradictory position in which the politicians of Europe have seen fit to place themselves.

The French and English, solemnly bound to make war under the League of Nations, the Locarno treaties, and the agreements with Poland and Czechoslovakia, with equal solemnity bind themselves at Paris not to make war. Which of these promises is to be respected? If Germany should ten years from now seek to recover by force the Dantzig corridor, would France stand idly by and leave Poland to its fate? If Germany should embark upon another war against France, would England respect its pledge to renounce war as a national policy? If Italy, under the bellicose Mussolini, should undertake to conquer the Balkan countries, how long would France and England remember their promise made yesterday?

When the Kellogg treaty was in process of negotiation, the New York World made this distinction between it and the League of Nations idea:

A treaty to renounce war has no meaning unless it is administered by some sort of international agency which has authority to interpret it. If each nation can interpret it to suit itself, each nation can do with it whatever its interests and conscience compel it to do. No nation really renounces war until it renounces the right to be the sole judge of what constitutes war. Mr. Kellogg does not propose to do that. The European experiment in the organization of peace tentatively proposed just that. And that is why it is a more realistic movement to renounce war than Mr. Kellogg's treaty.

The New York Herald Tribune said of the treaty: We greatly admire the record of the Coolidge administration and we strongly approve its many sound and beneficent accomplishments; but the Kellogg treaty is certainly not one of them.

The text of the Kellogg treaty itself is loosely worded and susceptible of many varying interpretations. For one thing, it established no standards of violation, thus making enforcement impossible. . . . This looseness makes the treaty futile and provides a source of future danger and dispute.

The conception of renouncing war by governmental fiat is inherently absurd. Many persons think a real step toward peace has been taken, when no real step can ever be taken which does not entail a real sacrifice from every man of us.

The treaty will probably be signed, but we hope the Senate will refuse to ratify it. This attempt to give something for nothing only entrenches war more deeply than ever.

The Republican New York Evening Post said:

We fear that Mr. Kellogg's proposals amount to a multilateral unreality. They set back the cause of peace by getting nations to promise more than they have any real intention of delivering.

The vagueness of the treaty leaves it open, as the Herald Tribune points out, to various interpretations. It provides that disputes between the nations shall never be settled except by pacific means, but it sets up no machinery for the peaceful settlement of disputes.

To this body of opinion the Post-Dispatch belongs. We cannot regard the treaty as Senator Borah does, or as Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler does. We can only respect their opinion and wish that in a world so real as this is such unrealities might be given greater weight. What happened was that after suggesting the League of Nations and then renouncing it the United States found herself in a disagreeable position before the rest of the world. She welcomed the Briand suggestion because it offered her an opportunity to put herself in a more favorable light. Thus, instead of a bond of good will between France and the United States, as originally proposed, the treaty became the instrument of fifteen nations, with forty-seven others invited to acquiesce in it by wire, wireless, or cable. Some of these have already done so. Why not? They surrender nothing.

If there is a joker in this treaty, it is contained in the use of the word "policy." It will be noted that the powers do not pledge themselves to abandon war, but merely to abandon it "as an instrument of policy." But when has a nation admitted that it employed war "as an instrument of policy"? Every war is a "defensive war" from the standpoint of each nation engaged in it. It was in "self defense" that Germany declared war on the allies, and in "self defense" that the allies declared war on Germany. No diplomat ever admits any other reason for going to war, and we imagine none ever will.

What the suffering peoples of the world want is an abandonment of war for any purpose. War as "an instrument of policy" is no more destructive and fatal than any other kind of war. To the soldier dying horribly in a shell hole, the fact that his country did not enter the war in furtherance of a national policy will not be much consolation, nor will it restore him to his family. What the world needs is not something which will furnish a more respectable excuse for war when it occurs, but a way to prevent it from occurring at all.

In this connection, it can very cogently be argued that the present treaty will act as a positive evil, by serving as an excuse for rejecting plans that might really prevent war. Suppose a really effective plan should be proposed in the future. Undoubtedly it would be opposed on the ground that the present treaty, already in existence, made it unnecessary. As a matter of fact, the Russians already are saying that the powers have agreed to the present pact in order to have an excuse for rejecting any genuine peace plan that may be offered.

The same wires that carried a description of the signing of the treaty also conveyed the information that Western Europe is more heavily armed today than it was in 1913. Notwithstanding that the armies of Germany, Austria, Russia and Bulgaria have been reduced to a mere fraction of their pre-war strength, the nations to the west of them continue to maintain vast armies, and to pile up colossal armaments. This may indicate a willingness to abandon war "as an instrument of policy," but it certainly indicates no disposition to abandon it altogether. Does anybody believe that all these airplanes and tanks, these submarines and long range guns, these gas bombs and high explosive shells, are intended for use in a playful game of tag? Of course not. Undoubtedly their presence would be defended, not as instruments of policy, but as "measures of defense." And so the old game of empty words and hollow gestures, with its grim undertone of reality, goes merrily on.

We have had other peace treaties of this sort. Early in the first Wilson administration Secretary of State Bryan undertook the negotiation of peace treaties. Those treaties, though formally styled "President Wilson's Peace Proposals," have come to be known as the "Bryan Peace Plan." The proposal was that all disputes which diplomacy failed to adjust should be referred to an international commission for investigation and report. Provisions were embodied in the text for creating an impartial commission, which, it was stipulated, should have a year to conclude its work, or, if that were too long, a period to be mutually agreed upon. There was no commitment on the part of either nation to a controversy to accept the commission's report, but the signatories bound themselves not to make war pending the commission's report. Faith in the efficacy of the pact was vested in the period of investigation, which Bryan happily called the "cooling off period." Thirty nations (Germany alone of the Great Powers refusing) entered in the "Bryan Peace Plan" which was scarcely a year old when blown to fragments by the World War.

Since the World War national security has been a major preoccupation of all governments. Numerous peace projects have been submitted and considered. The most impressive of all those efforts are the Locarno treaties, or, more accurately, the pledges signed at Locarno by France, Belgium and Germany. In that pledge France and Belgium on the one hand and Germany on the other agree never to attack each other, or invade the territory of the other, and never in any case to go to war with each other, except . . .

Always there is that fatal "except." The first exception in this instance is the "right of legitimate defense," followed by an itemized list of contractual obligations under which these nations as members of the League of Nations must or might resort to force.

The truth as to this treaty is, we are afraid, one of the most disheartening things about humankind. All nations are willing to sign peace treaties so long as they do not have to join in scorching the offender, or so long as there is no danger that they will be scotched by the others for breaking the peace. It was that point, incorporated in Article 10, that kept us out of the League of Nations. In the case of the World Court we refused to surrender to others even the right to pass upon matters in which we claimed an interest. The other nations in the court refused to admit us on any such hypocritical terms. The best we can say of the treaty signed at Paris yesterday is that it has our well wishes.

Communism in the Orient

Just as the French Revolution aroused nationalistic desires in the Americas, so the Russian Revolution is arousing the Orient's desire for freedom; Spanish writer thinks Red propaganda has found the Achilles heel of imperial Europe.

LUIS ARAQUISTAIN in El Sol (Madrid Independent Liberal Daily).
Reprinted From The Living Age.

CROMWELL'S maxim, which was also Shakespeare's, to the effect that when you don't know where you are going, then you go forth, does not apply to the Occidental European, at least in modern times. Communism has been defeated in Europe not only because European nations are strong nations, but also because the Western European, even when he calls himself a Communist, wants to know where he is going, whereas true Communism is a leap in the dark. After three centuries of leaping into darkness, life in Europe has ceased to be a vivid adventure and has become, instead, a laboratory experiment. There are still occasions when Western Europe is willing to bleed itself white for the sake of European equilibrium, or some other ancient ideal. It did that as recently as 1914-1918. And such things as "revolutions" can still happen. Modern Italy threw off constitutional monarchy and came under the absolute rule of a dictator overnight. But Europe no longer exists justified in spilling a single drop of her blood for "any ideal" merely because it happens to be new.

In this old age? Is it wisdom? Sometimes they are the same thing. Since revolutionary Communism has found no opportunity for effective action in the West, where it serves merely as a motivating force in election struggles, it has gone off with giant strides into the shadowy Orient. The Third International, which is a political group and nothing more in the West, is a real flag of battle and armed revolution in the East. On one day Communism arouses the natives of the Dutch colonies in the Pacific—Java and Bali—to revolt. The next day the Communists come to an agreement with the Left Wing of the Chinese Kuomintang. Communism is working as a ferment, which may gradually transform the great Chinese Nationalist revolution against European imperialism into a social revolution, supported by students, farmers, and workmen.

Recently the world read with astonishment of the visit of the King and Queen of Afghanistan to Moscow to confirm a treaty of understanding between the Soviets and the Central Asian states through which Russian Communism must pass on its way to British India. England watched uneasily such mutual flatterings and flatteries between the monarchy which borders on her Indian colony and the Macdonellian Soviets.

Certain purists in political etiquette were scandalized at diplomatic fraternization between a government which pretends to be the most radical in the world and a semi-feudal monarchy. But the Western powers, themselves past masters in the art of pursuing an international policy quite contrary to their domestic policy, can hardly protest at this sort of relationship, in which "idealistic principles are sacrificed to reasons of state."

It is well known that Russia's policy since her attempted frontal attack upon England proved of no avail, is to strike the British on their flank, in China, in India, and in Egypt. A short time ago a number of young Egyptians, who in 1922 had come to Moscow at the expense of the Soviet to study at the Oriental College of Communist Propaganda, reappeared in Cairo. Every day, throughout almost all Asia and Oceania, Russian Communist vessels are coming and going with students trained in revolutionary doctrines. The study of revolution as a variation of the art of war is a new departure in education, and it is beginning to interest the great European empires.

Russian Communism is seeking the Achilles heel of Imperial Europe in the latter's colonies and dependencies on other continents. The intense struggle between Communism and modern economic imperialism has given rise to tremendous development of nationalism throughout all the Orient. Many of these nationalist movements of a colonial type preceded the Russian Revolution; but it was the Russian Revolution that provided them with plans and the means for organized combat. Never were the colonial empires of European nations in greater danger than they are today.

We Spaniards can watch this Nemesis of the great European powers without undue anxiety. Our own Nemesis was the French Revolution, which stimulated and finally drove to the point of action a series of nationalistic movements in the Americas that eventually deprived Spain of her colonies. The death blow of the Spanish Empire was struck by the French Revolution when it fired the white heat of the desire for liberty and independence of the people of the Americas. With the Bastille fell not only feudal France but Imperial Spain.

With certain variations, history is repeating itself. A revolution in Russia, is shaking the colonies of Asia, of Africa, and of the Pacific to their foundations, initiating another cycle of nationalist movements. The Orient is aping the America of a century ago, and like America, will soon succeed in shaking herself free from Europe. The parallel seems inevitable. The future of European economic imperialism is measured by a few years, if not by days. Why should we mourn its fall? There were no lamentations when Spain lost the Americas, not even from the Spaniards. Today we realize that it was a good thing for all concerned. The existence of her colonial empire was one of the basic reasons for Spanish decadence; and the loss of her last colonies, though snapping the strongest bonds of patriotic feeling was the salvation of Spain. Perhaps the loss of the Orient will likewise save Europe, which is today so spiritually decadent, so fearful of the unknown.

And if this happens we may thank the Russian Revolution, the arrow which found the vulnerable heel of an imperialistic continent.

NOW hearken to the sorry tale the sport pages tell, No longer to the daring steal the fabled bosoms swell, The day of Cobb is over and the fleet of foot are done, The strategy at present is to hammer in each run: The knack of stealing bases to the hit has given place, Forgotten now the speed and skill of stealing second base; The way they play at present all the shining records fall, The team that wins the ball game is the team that swats the ball.

The gallant days are done with when they watched the pitcher's arm, The days of inside baseball now have lost their potent charm; No longer at a fanning bee do pitchers stage a bout, And strategy's unheard of in this heyday of the clout; They get on base at present, but they never think to steal. Unless a hit can bring them in, they'll stay there till they feel; Oh, nevermore can fandom know what's now a vanished thrill, The team that wins the ball game is the team that smacks the pill.

It does seem strange when 50 per cent say that the issue is not in politics and the other 50 per cent wants it taken out of politics. The name "pleasure car" antedates the rumble seat. Every cloud has its silver lining, and if you do not like the dish, you can explain that you are dieting.

Some baseball teams are such that when they do win a game, the fans are inclined to blame the losing team. There are at least two sides to every question, and we see that a student inquires if an inferiority complex is ever an asset.

Kipling's much quoted "East and West" is fundamentally so different from the twin can never meet in the same place, the scientific explanation of the West has in various means of rapid communication tending to break down ancient barriers of misunderstanding in both hemispheres. Findings of our own power, convincing to some, uncomfortable to others, as yet, have not contradicted the old materialist assumption as to there being a valid conscious state, the which the senses are regarded as absolute. Such findings, with the vanishing of material sense phenomenon, are increasing Western interest in mental thought, and the unlikely to increase rapidly is understood that no content between the two world views.

A Valuable Interpretation

THE STORY OF ORIENTAL PHILOSOPHY. By L. Adams Beck. (E. Harrington). (Cosmopolitan Book Corporation).

KLING'S much quoted line about East and West being fundamentally so different that the train can never meet is beginning to seem much more doubtful now than when it was written. In the first place, the scientific preoccupation of the West has resulted in various means of rapid communication tending to break down ancient barriers of misunderstanding in both hemispheres; and in the second place, Western Science, in elaborating its materialistic dogma, has arrived at a point where matter, as formerly conceived, has vanished, leaving nothing but a mystery called energy. There are passages in the teaching of Buddha (400 B. C.) that read substantially as though some advanced modern physicist had written them, the difference being not in conception, but in terms.

Those who are accounted experts on the subject tell us that the vast apparent difference between the characteristic Eastern and Western world views is the difference between the conscious states in which the Eastern and Western minds have specialized. We of the Western world, it is insisted, have assumed that there is only one conscious state, that in which the senses are absolute; and it is out of this state, so Oriental seers would say, that our marvelous physical science and technology have been developed. But also they would tell us, what many of us are beginning to suspect for ourselves, that while science, operating on the level of the senses, can give us power over our environment, it cannot possibly give us the wisdom necessary to a humane control of that power. Certain findings of our own psychology, convincing to some, unconvincing to others, as yet have seemed to contradict the old materialistic assumption as to there being but one valid conscious state, the one in which the senses are regarded as absolute. Such findings, together with the vanishing of matter as a sense phenomenon, are tending to increase Western interest in Oriental thought, and the interest is likely to increase rapidly when it is understood that no contest between the two world views is involved.

We are told that the Western view is "wrong" only in being a partial view of the livable human world, that the values realized by the senses are as "real" as any other; but that the scale of human values ascends unbroken from the lowest to the highest level; that only by the realization of those values which are of the higher levels can we hope to save ourselves from ourselves. This is doctrine that we of the West have long professed to believe, stating it in another way; but in our intense preoccupation with sense values and the consequent emphasis placed upon the acquisitive instinct, we seem, as a society, to have forgotten what our professed religion once meant, though there are still many individuals who do know and prove their knowledge by their way of living.

For those to whom the foregoing remarks do not seem necessarily to be associated with scientific mental dilettantism or "goofiness," "The Story of Oriental Philosophy" may prove an interesting and valuable work. Considering the great popular success of Durand's book, it was inevitable that someone would offer a work on the Philosophy of the East, and the reading public is fortunate in that the task was assumed by L. Adams Beck. Many scholars could have written interesting factual accounts of the various phases of Oriental thought. But the very subject is of such a nature that mere knowledge of it matters scarcely at all, understanding being everything; and it is evident that Mrs. Beck has undertaken to interpret the vital ideas of Oriental teachings out of her own rich inner experience with them.

By the Associated Press.
PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 28.—A will creating a $100,000 trust fund for Portland geniuses "by the name of Miller, Rackleff or Nelson" was filed for probate here yesterday. The will is that of James L. Rackleff, friend and classmate of Chauncey M. Depew, and last member of the Yale class of 1886, who died here last Tuesday at the age of 92.

After declaring that it is difficult to lay down rules for rewards to genius because of "changes in every form of practical endeavor," the testator wrote, "whenver deemed expedient, I authorize the trustees to pay the tuition of a student by the name of Miller, Rackleff or Nelson who is recommended by a teacher or distinguished attorney, and who shows special signs of genius, in any direction." Rackleff had great pride in his family name and that of Miller and Nelson, which appear frequently in the Rackleff genealogy. The Portland directory lists 21 Nelsons and 119 Millers. Rackleff was the last of that name in this city.

Day by Day in the West

By O. O. McIntyre

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 28.

KANSAS CITY seems to have entirely recovered from the recent political hoop-de-doo. A few weather-stained Hoover banners survive; otherwise one would never know of the history making exercises held here so recently. The weather is hot, coats rare and perspiration profuse.

A messenger boy went crying through the station: "Telegram for Mr. Billie Burke." "She isn't a he," I called to him, pleased with my worldliness. "And you ain't so he-looking yourself," he replied. Which was rather snappy, but was it nice?

Kansas City interests me more than most cities. It was long the goal of youthful day dreams. On a farm 20 miles away I spent hours in lazy contemplation of becoming a reporter on the Star. And I was a headline in the county weekly: "Local Boy Now Big City Journalist."

The Kansas City of that period was encompassed in breakfast at the Coates House; cattlemen with their pistol holsters showing; the glass bar at the Elks' Club filled with running water and live fish; the stock yards; high stepping carriage horses and prize Holstein heifers.

I heard elders talk of the Kansas City "boom" and that things would never be the same. There was an El Dorado rush and the usual boom deflation. But the gloomy predictions failed. The only remaining touch of the K. C. I knew is the custom of sitting in front of hotels in sidewalk chairs.

The ramshackle old union station, so long an eyesore, is gone. It was fretted on all sides with cheap-John stores, labor agencies collecting human cargoes for Kansas wheat fields and Montana mines, pawn shops and other tawdry mumbo-jumbo of commercial ruff-raff.

In its stead has arisen a labyrinthine temple of marble which for the size of the city is the most magnificent station in America. The boulevards and parks are world models. Kansas City has an insular smugness. It is the most sufficiently unto itself city anywhere. And there are dandy reasons for its pride.

KANSAS CITY has red-corpusculated enthusiasm for fine bulls, sleek geldings and rare porkers. They discuss the fine points of a Poland China hog with the gusto of an art connoisseur over a rare bit of jade. And it would not be surprising if many could instantly recognize the proper bead on a well-sped Bourbon.

PECULIARLY enough the flat "r" of the Middle West is missing here. The old settlers were chiefly Virginians and Kentuckians and the pleasant inflections of the South have been handed down. "You all," "sho'ly," and the dropping of the final "r" are pronounced.

IT is one of the few cities where dogs are permitted on street cars. I saw several passengers alight and their poodles trotted after them.

WHAT New York knows as "a front" has no significance here. Rich farmers drive in from fertile acres wearing cheap broad-brimmed straw hats, overalls and blue work shirts. Kansas City knows they will likely spend more in a day than dressed up slickers in a week and treats them accordingly. This is not to imply Kansas City is a dowdily dressed city. But to judge a man by his clothes here would be utterly I don't know what.

BEFORE starting for the train I told the taxi driver to drive some place for a bite to eat. "Plain or fancy?" he inquired. I replied my tastes were modest, and we drew up in front of one of those roadside potamine parlors. "Tell him to make you an Ajax," called the driver. An "Ajax" is a raw hamburger sandwich sprinkled with garlic and onions and covered with a rich brown gravy and is another reason why I shall always adore Kansas City.

GOV. SORLIE, N. DAKOTA DIES OF HEART DISEASE

Non-Partisan League Leader
Succumbs in Bismarck at Age of 54.

By the Associated Press.
BISMARCK, N. D., Aug. 28.—Gov. A. G. Sorlie of North Dakota died here this morning. Death was caused by heart disease from which the Governor has been gravely ill for the last three days. Sunday he was reported improved. Yesterday he was "very low."
Gov. Sorlie's death brings to the Executive's chair Walter Maddock, the Lieutenant-Governor, who is a real dirt farmer, and is rated a self-made man. He was educated in the common schools and business college. Later he studied law and civil engineering, taking mail courses in those subjects.
Since 1906 he has operated a farm near Plaza and has been active in forming several farmer co-operative associations. He was elected Lieutenant-Governor in recognition of his services to the Non-Partisan League as a member of the Legislature, and his experience as a lawmaker. He was chairman of the North Dakota delegation to the last Republican National Convention.

Served Two Terms as Governor: Hal Gustave Sorlie was born April 24, 1874, near Albert, Lea Minn. His parents were Iver and Mary Sorlie, natives of Norway. When he was 19 years old he came to North Dakota, where he worked in a bank, operated a general store and later became a traveling salesman.
In 1907 he entered the fuel, seed and feed business at Grand Forks as A. G. Sorlie & Co. The enterprise was successful and was the basis for a considerable fortune which he later accumulated in other business endeavors.
Despite his extensive interests, the Non-Partisan League selected him as its standard bearer in 1924, and he won the gubernatorial election after a hot fight with R. A. Nastos, the Republican incumbent. He was re-elected in 1926, but did not seek re-nomination this year, saying that he desired to retire to private life at the end of his term.
In 1920 Gov. Sorlie married Miss Jennie Odegard, who died later. In 1919 he married Miss Grace Hillboe at Grand Forks.
The first important act of office came to Gov. Sorlie when, in his first term, he appointed Gerald P. Nye to the United States Senate to succeed Senator E. F. Ladd, who died in office.

WAR ROBBED OF LEGITIMACY BY PACT,
BRIAND DECLARES

their own responsibility expose it to such danger? The modern law of interdependence between nations makes it incumbent upon every statesman to take up for himself those memorable words of President Coolidge: "An act of war in any part of the world is an act that injures the interests of my country."
"Now we can realize how important it is to extend the scope of this wide range of international solidarity which tends, as an ideal end, to encompass the whole of the universe."
"When on the twentieth of June, 1927, I had the honor of proposing to the Hon. Mr. Kellogg the terms of words which he decided to accept and embody in the draft of a multilateral pact, I never contemplated for one moment that the suggested engagement should only exist between France and the United States. Indeed, I have always thought that in one way or another through multiplication or extension, the proposed covenant would in itself possess an expanding force strong enough to reach rapidly all nations whose moral adhesion was indispensable. It was, therefore, a source of gratification to me to see Mr. Kellogg, from the beginning of the active negotiations that he was to lead with such a clear-sighted and persevering mind, advocate extension of the pact and assign to it that universal character that fully answered the wishes of the French Government.

Application in Actual Practice.
"It may be said that this desirable universality that was at the origin of the pact has already found its application in actual practice, for the intentions expressed by many Governments enable us even now to consider the spiritual community of the nations that are morally represented at this first signature as being much wider than it appears to the on-lookers. All those peoples whose delegates have not been in a position to sit amongst us today must realize in this hour of complete union our unanimous regret that, for purely technical reasons, it was found imperative to adopt a procedure best calculated to ensure and expedite, for the benefit of all, the success of this great undertaking.
"Thus, the mind's eye broadens this solemn assembly of first signatures to a general pact for renunciation of war and extends it beyond the walls of this room and even over all frontiers, whether on land or on sea. With this wide communion of men, which we feel surrounding us, we sincerely are entitled to reckon that we are more than 14 around this table. And well may you have noticed that the Government of the republic has purposely ordered that the flags of all nations should be hoisted over the building which is sheltering us today.
"Gentlemen, in a moment the awakening of a great hope will be signaled to the world along the wires. It will henceforth behoove us as a sacred duty to do all that can and must be done for that hope not to be disappointed, proclaimed. It is well, it is much; but it still remains necessary to organize it. In the solution of difficulties right and not right must prevail. That is to be the work of tomorrow.

"At this unforgettable hour, the conscience of peoples pure and rid of any national selfishness, is sincerely endeavoring to attain those serene regions where human brotherhood can be felt in the beatings of one and the same heart. Let us seek a common ideal within which we can all immerge our fervent hopes and give up any selfish thoughts. As there is not one of the nations represented here that has not shed the blood of her children on the battlefields of the last war, I propose that we should dedicate to the dead, to all the dead, of the great war, the event which we are going to consecrate together by our signatures."

LOOK OUT FOR "B.O."!

With sidewalks broiling—with offices, factories and homes as hot as ovens—local residents are seeking relief from the grip of the latest heat wave. Intense discomfort, however, is not the only bad feature of the heat wave. For on days like this everyone, without special precautions, is very apt to offend with "B. O." (Body Odor).
Even in cool weather, doctors say, our pores give off as much as a quart of odor-causing waste every 24 hours. Thus, in hot weather "B. O." is even more dangerous.
No matter how much we perspire, it is easy to keep safe from body odor. This is by keeping our several million pores purified. When pores are purified perspiration has little or no odor.
How to keep safe
Thousands, realizing that body odor is a serious drawback to social and business success, are now keeping safe with the world-famous toilet soap, Lifebuoy. Its bland and abundant antiseptic lather deeply purifies pores, giving bath-to-bath freshness and ending "B. O."

When winter comes

there'll be little if any call for the medicine chest among children fortified now with plenty of edible sunshine—good butter

Many a mother dreads to think of winter months, however far away. Winter so often means pale children, colds, croup, lack of vitality, sleepless nights, doctor's bills.
And the remedy is such a simple one—to give growing children plenty of inside sunshine, now, that they can store up for their well-being when winter comes—good butter, rich with vitamins A and D, properties found in the golden sunshine itself.
But, more than that—far more—is the great fact that children who get these valuable vitamins in the form of good butter grow tall, grow strong, attain their rightful weight and are less subject to childhood disorders that place such a handicap in the march to success. The battle is to the strong

MASSEY WILSON GETS CREDIT FOR CONTRACT

His Efforts Protected International Stockholders From Loss.

Holders of a majority of stock of the International Life Insurance Co., including E. P. Greenwood, president of the Great Southern Life Insurance Co. of Texas, give credit to Massey Wilson, one of the receivers of the company, for his aid to others in forcing amendments to the contract of reinsurance with the Missouri State Life Co., by which more liberal compensation for the stockholders was provided.

Wilson, one of the founders of the International Life, led a successful fight against the insurance commissioners of eight states and other interests who sought to consummate a contract of reinsurance dated Aug. 1, with the result that a new contract was made that raised the outside price to be paid for the business by $2,000,000 or $1,000,000.

The fight now over, Wilson, who had been criticised by interests favoring the first contract, emerged as Federal receiver and with the "implicit confidence and trust of the court," as Judge A. L. Reeves expressed it from the bench after hearing all sides of the controversy. In July, when the insurance commissioners learned the company's capital and surplus had been wiped out by the manipulations of its president, Roy C. Toombs, against whom criminal charges are pending in this connection, they invited the Missouri State Life to offer a contract for reinsurance of the International Life. This contract was drawn and submitted to the commissioners, who were so favorably impressed with its terms that they called on the board of directors of the International Life to accept it without delay, which was done.

This contract contemplated that the Missouri State Life, in taking over the business, should have allowance for expense of administration and would retain all profits of the business until the policy reserve deficit was repaid, after which the stockholders were to receive a share of the profits in installments without interest over a period of years until they received 100% a share. It gave the Missouri State Life complete control over administration of assets except in respect of single investments of more than $25,000.

Here Wilson, a stockholder in the holding corporation, stepped in. All were agreed that policyholders were in no danger, but Wilson feared a possible total loss for stockholders. Moving to block the reinsurance plan under that contract Wilson filed suit for a receivership in the St. Louis Federal Court, and, accompanied by his attorney, W. L. Mason, went by airplane to Kansas City in three hours and got a hearing before Judge Reeves, the only United States District Judge available at that time.

Judge Reeves appointed two temporary receivers and issued an injunction forbidding consummation of the proposed reinsurance contract. After the receivership was made permanent with Wilson and Ben C. Hyde, State Superintendent of Insurance, as receivers, the Missouri State Life, in the period of delay that followed, amended its offer so as to give the stockholders a possible 150% a share, together with 5 per cent interest from the outset, instead of 100% a share with no interest.

Wilson accepted the final reinsurance contract as the best that had been offered, but what he wanted was time to rehabilitate the company under plans he had in mind, which he believed would have resulted in a more substantial return to the stockholders and at the same time would have enabled the company to resume business under its own name.

CURTIS RECITES REPUBLICAN RECORD IN AID OF FARMER

Emergency Tariff, Extension of Farm Credits and Authorization of Co-operatives.

By the Associated Press.

STRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Republican efforts on behalf of agriculture in the party's seven years of postwar administration were detailed today by Senator Curtis, the Republican vice-presidential nominee, and compared with the position of Democrats in Congress, particularly on the tariff.

Speaking at the invitation of the American Farm Bureau to a New York State Fair assemblage, the Kansas Senator confined his prepared remarks principally to the agricultural situation. He cited the passage of the emergency tariff act, the extension of farm credits through the intermediate farm credit act of 1923 and through the War Finance Corporation, and the enactment of legislation authorizing organization of co-operative associations, as among the accomplishments of the Republican administration.

The nominee also praised the Kellogg treaty for the renunciation of war which was signed yesterday in Paris, predicting its general approval in this country and adherence to it by every nation in the world. As Republican leader of the Senate, Senator Curtis will be called upon next session to ask for formal ratification of the pact.

COOLIDGE PREPARES TO REDUCE DEFICIT

He Will Press Economy Program — Senator Capper and West Call on Him.

By the Associated Press.
SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 28. — Concerned by estimates compiled by the Bureau of the Budget, forecasting a Treasury deficit of $94,000,000 at the end of the current fiscal year, President Coolidge intends as soon as he gets back to Washington to take vigorous measures to cut down expenses.

To this end he will appeal to the heads of all departments and Government bureaus, and thereby hopes to reduce materially the estimated deficit. The likelihood of a deficit at the end of the present year probably will affect budget estimates now being compiled for the fiscal year 1939.

Gen. Summerall, chief of staff, on his visit urged the strengthening of the aviation defense at the Panama Canal. President Coolidge thinks it would be feasible to do this under the five-year aviation program authorized by Congress in 1926.

Secretary of State Kellogg has advised President Coolidge that Latin American diplomatic representatives in Washington have signified the intention of their countries to adhere to the anti-war treaty signed yesterday in Paris.

TRUE LIFE STORY OF THE PRINCE OF WALES

WALTER AND LEONARD

INSTALLMENT VII.

SHORTLY before Christmas the Prince of Wales returned to Buckingham Palace from Dartmouth, where he and his brother, Prince Albert, had spent the Christmas holidays. During the stay of his two eldest sons at the palace, the Prince of Wales was able to supply framed and mounted photographs of Princes Edward and Albert attired in the uniforms of cadets.

The coming in of a new year, 1929, marked a new era in the life of the Prince of Wales. Boyhood days were to end quickly and decisively, events were to happen which in the same time broadened and reformed the Royal Prince's activities.

Prince Albert, who had completed his training at Osborne, returned to Dartmouth with his brother, Edward, and school life was peacefully enough until, towards the end of February, an outbreak of measles occurred at the Royal Naval College. Eventually it was announced that both the Prince of Wales and Prince Albert were on the sick list. However, their recovery was speedy.

In company with their tutor, Mr. Russell, the Royal brothers spent about while at Newquay to complete, preparatory to the transfer of the Prince of Wales from a free boy into a Royal Prince, and to the great British Empire.

On March 30 the Prince left for the purple robes of state. His departure from Dartmouth was not distinguished from the leave-taking of a student who had gained popularity with his colleagues. There were farewells to particular friends, presentations to make and receive, and the gathering together of personal belongings. The Prince returned to London to take over his new duties of State.

During the summer of this year the important events followed one upon each other. On June 10 Prince Edward of Wales was invested with the Ensign of the Most Noble Order of the Garter in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, in the presence of representatives of all divisions of the order. Foreign Sovereigns to Knight Companions.

The ceremony was a solemn one, and the young Prince conducted himself with dignity and composure.

Only when his father knelt to put the Garter on his right leg did Edward betray emotion, but at a seemingly undignified action on the father's part the young Knight of the Garter made a slight movement of protest. He quickly recovered himself, however, but his eyes did not become normal again until he was kneeling before the King to receive the accolade.

Now came the last of the three great events in the early life of Prince Edward, for amidst the fanfare of trumpets, a wealth of color and splendor and before a background of ancient masonry, the Prince of Wales was finally invested at Carnarvon Castle with his title.

The ceremony was delightfully simple compared with the grandeur of the setting. The Prince, bareheaded, knelt at his father's feet while Mr. Winston Churchill, then the Home Secretary, read in an expressive voice the Letters Patent, whereby the Prince was invested with the various articles of the coronation—the mantle of purple velvet with collar and cape of ermine, the sword, the coronet, the gold ring and the golden verge. After the ceremony an address from the Prince of Wales was read to the Prince. His reply, spoken in Welsh, was brief but sincere.

The many links of the past, my father, the great title that I have, as well as my name David, all bind me to Wales, and today I can truly say that I am in "hen of the shadon" (the old land of my fathers).

He subsequently found it impossible to include some Emblem of Wales on the collar and Royal standard, but the King had hit upon a happy solution to the problem. Henceforth, he declared, the Prince of Wales should be added to the shield of the Prince.

The Prince of Wales had come through his ordeals with flying colors. But, very wisely, the King decided that his son should not be allowed to participate in any further State functions for a period of six months. Later it would be necessary for him to make his acquaintance with the Empire.

The pomp and ceremony of the

The Prince of Wales in complete uniform, wearing his important orders of rank.

past weeks had not in any way spoiled the modesty of the Prince. Indeed he was very conscious of his youth, and on several occasions confessed that his future duties would prove difficult for him to perform. "But if," he said, "I have the confidence of the people, I am sure I can win through!" Perhaps it was expecting too much of a mere boy to understand and appreciate fully the solemn significance of all the honors he had received, but when, in March, 1912, on St. David's day, the Prince received a deputation of Welsh Bishops who had come to Buckingham Palace to present to their

Prince a brief illuminated record of the historic happenings at Carnarvon, he set all minds at rest on this point by his reply:

"Today, St. David's day, you revive the memories of that splendid scene of which I was not too young, I think, to understand the meaning and the beauty. I shall always treasure this record of the thoughts inspired in you by a ceremony so noble and so sacred. 'I shall ever pray to God to make me worthy of being the Prince of Wales.'"

CONTROL OF CLOTHES MOTHS

COMPLETE elimination of clothes moths from dwellings and other buildings is difficult, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, but they can be kept in control by methods outlined in Farmers Bulletin 1352-F, "Clothes Moths and Their Control," which is available for distribution on application to the department.

The remedial methods explained include thorough cleaning and sunning, storage in paper and cold storage, control with chemicals such as naphthalene, paradichlorobenzene, camphor and others, several forms of fumigation and proper precautions for control through use of properly made cedar chests.

Dr. E. A. Back of the Bureau of Entomology, author of the bulletin, suggests that "women's clubs and neighborhood organizations can greatly reduce expenses in an-

SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON

BY HELEN ROWLAND

Consider, my Daughter, the double nature of Man.

For, verily, verily, every man is a study in black and white; and Janus, the two-faced, was not more inconsistent!

Behold, he seeketh always the Ideal Woman—but stoppeth by the way to dally with the light and foolish woman.

He sigheth for a woman who will thrill and inspire him—but spendeth all his days with the women who amuse and flatter him.

He saith in his heart, "I admire only a Perfect Lady"; yet he pursueth the flamboyant flapper and playeth around with the rough-necks and wild women.

He dodgeth the woman whom he loveth, lest his heart become entangled—and backeth into the arms of the woman whom he doth NOT love, and is entangled before he suspects it.

He saith, "Flirtation and petting are vain, and I am bored beyond words with women!" Yet upon the morrow, he calleth up the pink and yellow blonde, and goeth back to the old game, for distraction.

He yearneth always to do big and magnificent things—but wasteth all his days doing foolish and trivial things.

He saith, "Tomorrow, I shall rise at dawn and WORK until sundown, and naught upon the earth nor in the heavens above the earth shall stop me!"

And behold, upon the morrow, the dawn cometh and goeth, and the afternoon findeth him upon the golf links.

He resolveth, each day, to be calm and serene and unmoved by trifles. Yet, alas, when his stenographer arriveth ten minutes late, she findeth him pacing the office in a brainstorm. And when his wife summoneth him upon the telephone, while he is in conference, she is met with a tempest of reproach.

He saith, "Today will I go upon a reducing diet!" And at breakfast he scorneth the tempting bacon and the innocent muffin. Yet, at high noon, he cryeth, "I am hungry as a wolf! Go to. I can no longer endure this strain." And his order is roast beef and potatoes and rice pudding!

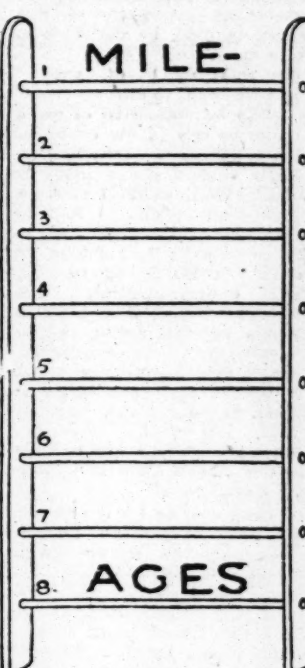

How, then, shall any woman understand the man whom she loveth?

For today, yesterday and forever he is animated by his higher aspirations and his finer ideals. But all the days of his life he is ruled by his little weaknesses and LED by his impulses!

Yea, verily, he is as a canoe trying to make the shore in a west wind!

COMFORT FOR HOUSEWIVES

By Emilie Hoffman.

ON all sides we hear of housewives who are victims of heat exhaustion. A wise housekeeper will eliminate much of her work during the summer and especially during the heated term.

All modern offices and business houses are equipped with electric fans and other cooling devices. Why not install these conveniences in the home? This will insure a comfortable abiding place for the woman upon whom depends the welfare of the entire family. The wise woman will observe a few precautions during the hot season.

She will keep the house well ventilated and protected against the sun. She will exert herself as little as possible and lie down in a cool room in the middle of the day.

While it may not be good housekeeping to do the marketing by telephone, it is a wise precaution on hot days. No thinking woman will go shopping on hot days. She will do the housework and prepare the day's meals in the early morning and spend the rest of her time on the porch or in some other cool place. She need not, necessarily, be idle, for there is usually mending and sewing to do, and this is a good time to catch up on reading.

Money spent on laundry during the summer is really vacation money spent for the housewife and this is well spent. If, however, you are one of those women who prefer to do their own washing you can at least eliminate much of the ironing.

Use Turkish towels, crinkled bed covers and wear crepe nightgowns that require no ironing. Fold sheets carefully when taken off the line and press them down with the hands. Silk undies and stockings wear longer if not ironed. Discard linen tablecloths and napkins. Invest in one of those new white table oilcloths in damask patterns that look pretty and need only be wiped with a moist cloth. Buy paper napkins by the hundred and use these during the summer. It will not injure the shirts and collars if sent to the laundry just for the summer.

This will materially cut down the ironing and, of course, you have an electric iron and a cool spot where you can sit down to do the ironing.

The housewife owes it to her family to keep cool and calm during the hot weather and she cannot do this if she carries on her regular schedule of daily household tasks.

Lime Water.

Lime water can be made at home and is much less expensive than the bought liquid. Just take a piece of unslaked lime the size of an egg and pour over it one quart of pure water. Let stand several hours, then filter through a clean white cloth. Pour in clean bottles and cork.

"Hard to say, but I often have to warn the girls" — Says a woman athletic director

When they learn of this new process* which neutralizes all odor in sanitary pads, they no longer fear offending others—self-consciousness disappears entirely

NO woman, from girlhood on, is free from the possibility of offending others at times. Often she is not even aware of it. When she learns, doubt and worry make light-heartedness impossible. Now a discovery of Kotex scientists overcomes this fear; each pad is scientifically treated to end all odor. The process is patented. No other pad offers such security.

No evidence of sanitary protection. That other fear—the feeling of being conspicuous—is also eliminated. Corners of the Kotex pad are scientifically rounded and tapered so as to leave no evidence of sanitary protection worn.

Yet every advantage remains. When you need greater or less protection, you can so easily add or subtract layers of filter. It is, as always, absorbent to an amazing degree. The fact that you can so easily dispose of it makes a great difference to women. And a new treatment renders it softer, fluffier, than you thought possible.

Won't you try the Improved Kotex—buy a box this very day. It is 45c for a box of twelve, at any drug, dry goods or department store; also obtained through vending cabinets in rest-rooms.

Deodorizes... and 4 other important features:

- 1—Softer gauze ends chafing; pleated filter absorbs as no other substance can.
- 2—Corners are rounded and tapered, no evidence of sanitary protection under any gown.
- 3—Deodorizes—safely, thoroughly, by a new and exclusive patented process.
- 4—Adjust it to your needs; filter may be made thinner, thicker, narrower as required.

and
5—It is easily disposed of; no unpleasant laundry.

*Kotex is the only sanitary pad that deodorizes by patented process. (Patent No. 1,670,387, granted May 22, 1928.)

Chinese Christians Want New Wives

CHINESE converts to Christianity have advanced the claim that admission to the church settles them to divorce their non-Christian wives and contract a new marriage "based on love as in the West."

The demand is a new phase of the old conflict between the customs of ancient China and the ideas implanted by Christian missionaries. Among non-Christian Chinese the bride and groom have little or nothing to do with the match.

Recent-day wedding ceremonies in Canton are of a hybrid nature. Firecrackers are plentifully used and rice-throwing, not a custom indigenous to China, has been introduced by returned students from America. Many brides wear foreign-style lace veils with Chinese kilt tops, while bridegrooms combine foreign straw hats and rubber-soled shoes with the conventional Chinese long silk gowns and black satin jackets.

The ancient wine ceremony and the observance before the tablets of the ancestors' ancestors are generally observed even at Christian weddings out of deference to older members of the family. In nationalist circles the political will of Dr. Sun Yat-sen is read and the couple bow three times before his portrait.

There's a Way to Conceal Sunburn

THE period between a bad case of sunburn on the face and the day when all peeling has ceased is a troublesome time, since the usual methods of makeup are far from efficacious. One may desire to use the use of powder altogether, but when it is necessary to make an appearance without proclaiming to the entire world that one is not sun-wise, it is advantageous to know just what will conceal the burning state.

First, apply to the nose and cheeks or the facial area concerned a base cream the exact color of the skin, making certain that all irregularities are covered and that the cream is smoothed on without pressure. Dust on a very light film of powder, being sure that it dusted rather than spread on with a brush. In this way the powder will conceal the peels instead of making them more conspicuous. The real secret is in having the cream match the natural tint of the skin, the second in using a not too light shade of powder. When using a cooling cream over a fresh sunburn a healing lotion should be applied first, then the cream smoothed over that. Put

He Plans to Spend $1,000,000 of Total for National Campaign in Corn States.

WARNS AGAINST DEFENSIVE ST.

Democratic Leaders Fling Conferences Today To Attend Robinson's Fication Tomorrow.

After a day of conference party leaders of eight Middle Western states, John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, announced today the party's national campaign budget would call for the expenditure of $1,000,000 in the West, or one-fourth of the budget of $4,000,000.

Half of this sum, Raskob would be spent in the 600 counties of the 10 corn-belt states and the remainder in the industrial and metropolitan communities.

The National Committee to spend $500,000 in selling the Democratic party's platform to farmers of the "Middle West," Raskob declared. "It is safe to state that it will cost as much to sell the platform to the farmers of the section. In addition, the committee plans to spend $100,000 for radio campaigns throughout the United States."

"Our reports from rural communities of the Middle West indicate that a majority of the newspapers throughout the agricultural section are normally Republican in politics. We shall therefore take means to reach the voters."

Gov. Smith's vigorous advocacy of equality for agriculture. It is plan to operate an organization, each county of these states."

Although Chairman Raskob the group of National Democratic leaders will remain in St. Louis until this evening, the work for which they came here was virtually completed with a dinner at Hotel Jefferson last night, attended by Democratic leaders from 10 states of this region who had discussed their problems and prospects with the national chairman in a series of conferences yesterday.

The delegates were returning to their home states today and national leaders, with Senator Frank B. Hawes, campaign chairman for this region, are devoting the day to smaller conferences on national problems. They will depart at 10:30 p. m. for Hot Springs, Ark., to attend the national ceremonies for Senator Joseph Robinson, vice presidential nominee, tomorrow.

The dinner last night was attended by about 150 men and women. Each of the eight states in the region—Missouri, Illinois, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kentucky, Tennessee and Iowa—was represented by a Contact Committee member and seven women, including State chairmen, regional chairmen and national, and congressional committee and committee women.

Warns Against Defensive St. In a brief talk, Chairman Raskob urged the campaign leaders to refrain from any mud-slinging in work and cautioned them to no time in defending Tammany Hall against its critics.

"Tammany Hall is an organization which exerts its power on Manhattan Island," he declared. "It has never sought to influence Gov. Smith in his actions as governor of New York."

"I do not mean to say that Smith has ignored Tammany. He has consulted its leaders on matters affecting the island of Manhattan, just as he has consulted Norman Mack about matters affecting Buffalo."

Let us not permit the Raskob to maneuver us into defending our candidate, our party platform. Our job is to sell the Democratic platform. In business the salesman is the one who sells product without condemning product of his competitor, regardless of what methods the competitor may use."

Whispering Campaign. Senator Hawes, who was the visiting Democrat, and A. Campbell of East St. Louis, national vice chairman for Illinois, discussed "whispering campaigns" which they declared were conducted in the various states.
